

Parents object to board's plans for shortening school bus routes

About 30 concerned parents turned out Monday night to voice their opinions and objections to the gas-saving regulations set up recently by the Mountain View School Board. The discussion at the meeting became rather heated at certain points, with some parents expressing dissatisfaction with the board's plan to cut bus routes short in an effort to conserve gasoline as has been advised by the Arkansas Department of Education.

Although one board member moved to have the entire bussing program reconsidered, the motion failed in a poll of the board members. The board did agree to "look into" each case considered to be a hardship and consider each one individually at its next meeting, however.

David Baxter of Pleasant Grove voiced strong objections to his children and other rural children having to walk any distance to catch the bus. He said, "You (the school) can get gas, you've got drivers hired. There's no excuse why they can't ride the bus. They've got as much right as any kid."

Baxter went on to say that "Some child might pay with his life for this incompetent leadership."

Sam Davis, also of Pleasant Grove, said, "A kid's right to come to school comes before anything else. I love sports and the band, but getting the kids to school is the first thing."

Davis is the father of two small daughters and said he was concerned with their safety. His wife, Joy, said, "There are nine kids on the route and three of them are kindergarten students. It would take two to three gallons of gas a week to pick them up. If you put our children back on the route, you'll have 50 to 100 others asking the same but I'm asking you to put them back on."

William Parsons said that when the board set up its rules it decided to consider each case as it came up. At that remark Baxter stood up and shouted, "Yeah, you'll take care of your friends and buddies and the others can walk!"

J.W. Heck, bus foreman, reminded Baxter that the school had offered him the job of driving his bus route last year and he had refused.

Baxter replied, "I was offered the job to keep me quiet. You know if you got me to take the job I wouldn't be up here making waves." Heck said that this was not the reason he was offered the job.

Rick Matzen, who lives on Iron Mountain Road, said that he had a kindergarten student who was having to walk further than a mile. He pointed out that he was not asking for a bus to pick up only his child but that there were six children who were walking "about one and a half to two and a quarter miles to catch the bus."

Matzen said he did not mind his child walking in good weather but "a five-year-old walking home in the snow is too much to handle. I don't believe I can let him go to school (if he has to walk very far)."

Roger Hopper, who lives in town, sympathizes with the rural parents. "I've got a boy that plays in the band and one that plays football but if you tell me that my kids are making another child walk a half a mile then they'll quit," he said.

He went on to say that he, too, felt each child had the right to ride the bus to school. Supt. B.J. Rosa told Hopper that what he was advocating "wouldn't work." He continued, "As much as the school board would like to, they can't run a bus to everyone's house."

Mrs. Davis asked if the bus routes couldn't be put back the way they were and the board "save the 10 to 20 per cent somewhere else?" Rosa replied, "We're sure trying." Mr. Davis said, "We sort of feel like we're being stepped on."

Bob Turner made a motion that the whole bussing program be sent back to the committee. The other board members saw no reason for this and voted it down.

Dr. Harold Algee, the high school principal, said the committee was made up of the

New direction

Visitors to Mountain View hopefully will be directed to the downtown business area by this new sign that was erected last week by the Mountain View Area Chamber of Commerce. The sign, located on the east end of town, was placed there in an effort to have visitors come to the courtsquare area instead of missing the downtown area by turning right at the junction of highways 9-5-14 and continuing north.

Meeting site changed to Capitol

Mayor Lona Ackerman and the members of the Mountain View City Council decided in their regular meeting Tuesday night that the mayor should attend the meeting between the city officials, the State Parks and Recreation Commission and the Ozark folk Center Commission.

The decision was made after the mayor informed the council that the meeting will be held in Little Rock on Monday, Sept. 17, instead of at the Folk Center, as originally planned, and because the meeting will be only an "exploration meeting," he said.

The mayor told the council that Richard Davies, Director of State Parks and Recreation Commission, had informed him in a recent telephone call that there would have to be "two or more meetings" to reach a decision.

As to whether the city will turn the Folk Center over to the state, Mayor Ackerman said, "Maybe if you were sitting over in some other part of the state it might seem like a pretty good idea to sell it (the center) but we have it at a sacrifice to the local people."

At this point, the Ozark Folk Center Commission is in charge of the center, the state has a 10-year lease with eight five-year options and the city has the deed to the 900 acres of land.

According to the mayor, it is either this year or the next that the state is to begin payment of five per cent of their gross earnings at the Center to the city. The reason the city is not sure on this matter is that they do not have a copy of the lease agreement.

Chester Passmore, council member, told the mayor that the city needed to get a copy of the lease and Vero Mitchell said, "I'm not sure what's in the lease and without a copy of it, I can't make a decision."

The mayor told the council that he would try to get a copy of the lease "the first thing"

Wednesday morning and felt sure there was a copy on file at the Folk Center.

Vero Mitchell pointed out that the city has the deed and therefore has the "most leverage." The mayor said that the city "didn't need to be unreasonable" but that the council members and he "would not last long as elected officials if they gave it away."

It was suggested that the meeting is being held in Little Rock to keep local people away. "I don't think so," the mayor said, "It's hard for me to have a bad feeling about the Culture Commission since they have served so long without pay."

Passmore said that the state feels that the city doesn't even own the center. The mayor agreed that there needs to be more co-operation between the city and state. He said, "Some people feel it's none of our business what goes on over there, but it's better in our situation to know what's going on."

The mayor will be attending the meeting at 2:00 p.m. at the Capitol building with Joe Wyatt, a local member of the Ozark Folk Center Commission.

In other action, the council voted to increase the maximum amount that can be spent on the repair of each house in the Housing and Urban Development rehabilitation project from $2,000 to $2,500. The council decided to

Accident leaves one dead, two injured

Flora Logan, 74, of Pleasant Grove, was killed and two Mountain View men were injured when two vehicles collided on Highway 14 about two miles east of Marcella Wednesday morning.

Police reports indicate that Mrs. Logan's automobile crossed the center line on the highway due to a heavy fog that had formed in the morning. The Logan vehicle collided with a pickup truck driven by James R. Yoder, 29, of Mountain View in a head-on crash.

Yoder and a passenger in his vehicle, Glen E. Bontrager, 29, also of Mountain View, were taken to Mountain View General Hospital and then transferred to St. Vincent's Hospital in Little Rock. Yoder suffered a dislocated hip in the wreck and Bontrager suffered a fractured ankle.

Officers indicated that Mrs. Logan was returning from visiting her daughter in Batesville at the time of the wreck. The men were on their way to work as carpenters. The accident occurred near the "three-bridge" area below Marcella.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Logan had not been completed at press time.

Growers' co-op receives pledge of court's "wholehearted support"

At the request of Growers' Cooperative, Inc. officials, the Stone County Quorum Court last Thursday pledged to give its "wholehearted support in every way" towards helping the new co-op in establishing a proposed broiler processing plant in Stone County.

The growers' representatives reiterated that they have felt "very little" support from the Mountain View and Stone county government and business leaders for their project, but the Izard County group was "on fire" for them to come there.

In a vote on the motion to support the Growers Cooperative, all the justices of the peace voted for the motion except Pete Younger, who was absent, and Bill Dobbins, who passed.

Dobbins explained that his passing on the matter was not to be construed that he was against the growers or the proposed cooperative, but that he "did not know enough about it to make a proper decision."

In other business at last Thursday's meeting, the quorum court voted unanimously to create five county jobs in order to provide compensation for workers considered to be critically needed which would otherwise have been lost because of the termination of the Comprehensive Em-

Two seniors' centers to close

Due to a reduction in funding, the Fox and Pleasant Grove Senior Citizen Centers will be closing at the end of this month, Northcentral Arkansas Development Council Executive Director Larry Goodwin announced.

The cuts are the most recent in a series of reduction in services provided by the Stone County Aging Program has seen since its funding was reduced after the first two years of operation. In those first two years, the program was administered as a pilot program, using about $600,000 in federal funds for operations.

When the original two-year program ended, the agency was able to muster enough funds to continue the program with carryover funds and with financial assistance from the White River Area Agency on Aging and the Community Services Administration.

This year, however, the agency's funding has dwindled from about $191,000 to about $105,000, and Goodwin said that no special funds are available to offset the reduction in services. The change means that the home delivered meals program and the socialization and nutrition programs will be cut out at Fox and Pleasant Grove centers.

The Mountain View and Fifty Six Senior Citizens Centers will remain open on a six-hour per day basis for socialization and nutrition programs, and no reduction in home-delivered meals service is expected.

Goodwin said the decision to close the Fox and Pleasant Grove centers had to be made due to a few reasons. The Pleasant Grove facility costs $125 per month to rent, and the amount of persons who are eligible for social services programs is not high enough, as the agency cannot be reimbursed if these figures are not met.

The Pleasant Grove center saw only about 50 per cent of its clientele being social services eligible, and the Fox figures were placed at "60-70" per cent while the Mountain View and Fifty Six centers showed 80 per cent social services eligibility, Goodwin said.

Although the persons living in the Fox and Pleasant Grove areas will not receive the benefit of socialization and nutrition programs or the home-delivered meals, those

County fair doors open

Three full days of exhibits, entertainment and carnival rides, are expected at the Stone County Fair that starts today and will run through Saturday, Sept. 15.

Today's activities begin at 8:30 for exhibitors to make ready for the judging. At 10:30 a.m. educational and general exhibits will be judged along with art, canned products, flowers, clothing and baked goods.

Larry Keaton, county extension agent, said that he expects more entries this year because there has been a big increase in the number of people coming by his office to pick up labels for goods to be entered.

At 11:00 a.m. all livestock, garden and field crop exhibits should be in place, and at 1:00 p.m. all exhibits will be open to the public.

Several new rides, including a Ferris Wheel, will be included in the enlarged carnival when the midway opens at 6:00 p.m. The evening's entertainment, which begins at 7:00 p.m., will be The Stone County Stompers.

The exhibit buildings will close at 9:00 p.m. and the fair will end its first day at 10:00 p.m.

Friday will be "School Day," with all students entering the fairgrounds free of charge between 8:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. The exhibits will open at 9:00 a.m. and the judging of garden exhibits, field crops, and all livestock except goats (which will be judged at 1:00 p.m.) will be judged at 10:00 a.m. The junior steer show will also be held at this time.

The midway will open again at 6:00 p.m. and the entertainment, featuring Skinny Blair's "Cane Spur," will begin at 7:00 p.m. On both Friday and Saturday nights, the Paul McCarron Rodeo from Batesville will be featured.

The last day of the fair begins at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday when the fairgrounds and the exhibits open. The midway will open at 2:00 p.m. Everyone should try to see the exhibits early on Saturday, according to fair officials, because the exhibitors may begin removing livestock at 5:00 p.m. and all other exhibits at 6:00 p.m.

Young Man Band, a brand new group made up of local teenagers will provide the entertainment beginning at 7:00 p.m. The rodeo will commence at 8:00 p.m. After 6:00 p.m. everyone may enter the fairgrounds at no charge.

Fair board members are expecting a "bigger and better" fair this year. Diane Hayden, board member, said that she was expecting more educational booths because they will have more space this year.

All expansions are expected to be completed with the finishing touches being put on the barn last Tuesday afternoon. New restroom facilities will also be ready for the fair's opening.

Courtsquare area paved

Paving of streets in certain areas of Mountain View was begun last week as work crews began the task by repaving the streets around the courtsquare. The work is being done by Franks' Bulldozer Service and Mountain View Asphalt, Inc. The paving is part of a streets improvement-water and sewer improvement project which is being undertaken in Mountain View using federal grant money.

Proposal should be considered

Recently, members of the Growers Co-operative Inc., a broiler growers organization, have been attempting to start an integrated broiler operation on their own for better conditions and greater income.

Several of the organization's members have been putting in a lot of work on the proposed project, and apparently their efforts of going to Washington, Little Rock and other areas to gather information is beginning to pay off. Surveys are now being completed as preliminaries to getting funding of the project, and organization leaders feel the plant is little more than a year away from being operational.

The group now feels that it is far enough along in its efforts to make a decision as to where the plant is going to be located and to secure a site wherever that is going to be.

Spokesmen for the group have indicated they are considering two areas for the location of the site, Calico Rock and Mountain View, apparently in that order. In that order, leaders maintain, because political and governmental leaders from the Izard County group have been infinitely more receptive towards the establishment of the plant in their area than Stone County leaders have.

The growers' officials argue that while local government has been voicing an interest in bringing industry to Stone County, little attention has been focused on the growers efforts to start a processing plant here. They don't understand this, they say, because the proposed plant would employ a few hundred persons, and most of those wages would probably stay in the local area.

Whether or not the chicken processing industry is the type of industry that is needed or wanted in Stone County, local officials should be sure to give the growers' proposals every consideration. Some questions concerning sewage and other possible environmental problems should be part of that consideration, but the overall effects (especially economic) of the project should be weighed.

Several years ago, Mountain View was high on the list for the site of construction of a Baxter Labs plant, which has since been located at Ash Flat. A lack of local interest and backing was responsible for the area not getting that industry, and the same disinterest was at least partially responsible for the McDonnell-Douglas plant to be set up in Melbourne while Mountain View was waiting in the wings.

Before Mountain View and Stone County lose another industry to a neighboring county through disinterest, local leaders should make themselves aware of the growers' proposals and give them serious consideration.

Gilly's fence corner

By Gilly Campbell

Senator Ted Kennedy, like a pesky mosquito, refuses to go away. It seems that he is continually buzzing Jimmy Carter's peanut patch, looking for a chance to attack. He could give "Trust me" Jimmy some trouble. In fact, the polls are favoring him to beat Mr. Carter in a political showdown.

Since no Gallop pollster has ever set foot in Stone County, except as a tourist, perhaps, I hoofed it around town and the county sampling public opinion as to the outcome of a Carter's Kennedy battle.

The first person I chose to interview was an old con hunter and chicken grower who lives on Turkey Creek. He expressed no opinion as to which of the two candidates would win in a political contest. But he did say, "I don't understand why so many people are mad at Jimmy Carter. He ain't done nothing."

Next, I talked with a housewife at Fox who was concerned about the rising cost of health care. She complained that it now cost her more for ambulance fare to the hospital than it used to cost her to have a baby. She believed that Kennedy would enact a national health care program if he is elected president. She favored Kennedy.

Later, I interviewed a farmer at Onia who said that he was a deacon in the church and that in his opinion, even though Mr. Carter was a very religious man, he was hindering church work. He was quick to explain that the president was a fine christian man, but since he had taken office the price for gasoline had risen to a point where few people could afford to drive to church. In fact, he had to conserve his driving in order to have gasoline enough to go fishing Sunday evenings.

Returning to Mountain View, I stopped a man on the sidewalk after he left Buster's Pool Hall and asked his opinion of a possible Carter vs Kennedy contest.

"The way I see it," he said, "Jimmy Carter is behind the eight ball and trying desperately to draw a full house. I doubt that he will ever domino."

Closings examined

Officials of the Stone County Aging Program this week announced that the Senior Citizens' Centers at Pleasant Grove and Fox will have to be closed at the end of the month because of a lack of funds to operate the facilities any longer.

The end of this program was foreseen actually a year ago, when the first of the cutbacks in the program were seen. After the bulk of the federal funding for the program was spent, program officials scraped up enough operating capital to at least run the program, on a somewhat limited basis, for another year.

Now, apparently after trying every avenue to get some additional funds, the move has been made to close the two centers in order to at least keep the Fifty Six and Mountain View senior citizens centers open.

Senior citizens in the Fox and Pleasant Grove areas, however, may not understand why their centers have to be shut down. According to officials, the action was taken because the seniors' income levels were greater at Fox and Pleasant Grove than at Mountain View and Fifty Six, which had an effect on the amount of federal monies the agency could be reimbursed for.

Somehow, however, it does seem somewhat illogical that while two of the "rural" senior citizens centers must be closed, one will remain open. Perhaps some way of keeping the Mountain View center open three days a week and each of the others two, or even one day per week, would be more equitable.

Kaleidoscope

By Jan Thornton

I just read in the Gazette that a 29-year-old Minneapolis account specialist was granted an uncontested divorce from her physician husband and awarded $24,600 in damages after testifying that her husband put her on a demerit system, ordering her to turn over one hour's pay for each demerit, and ordered her to lose weight, cut her hair, lower the pitch and raise the level of her voice, take dancing lessons and become a "movie buff."

In my opinion the woman deserved more than $24,600 to cover the mental strain she must have been going through. But if she went along with the system, she needs to pay her husband $50,000 for being so stupid.

I must say at this point that I have always been a very liberated woman, even back in my high school days when I wore a bracelet with the letters ERA inscribed on it. I suffered a lot of abuse back in high school hearing stupid remarks like, "You'll never get a man if you wear that,"

and "Do you want to have to use a co-ed restroom?"

I made it, though, and feel that I'm a better person for having a cause to believe in. I don't go along with the women's libbers on everything today because I think men are kind of nice to have around and I like telling Jeff to take out the trash because it's a man's job.

The poor woman mentioned above must have felt like a child in prison. I can imagine what I would do if Jeff decided to try to dictate my life. There may be few things (ha!) that I do that make him climb the walls but he's almost given up trying to make me change.

Jeff has found through two years of wear and tear that I do not take too well to having my behavior monitored or obeying direct orders. If he says "you're not going to..." I'm already half way out the door to doing just that thing.

That's why I can't understand a woman who would stay married to a man that would order her to lose weight or change the pitch of her voice. Somethings can not be tampered with. I would have told him if he didn't like the way I looked or spoke that he knew where the door was. I probably would have added that there had to be at least one woman in the world who would love to be told which shoe to put on first.

My marriage has a long way to go to be perfect but it could be if Jeff just weren't so bull-headed and would quit slamming doors, do the dishes when we run out of plates, grow a beard, put on some weight, quit nagging so much, stay out from under the hood of the car, . . .

Letter to the editor:

Dear Editor:

Several years ago, a letter from us about our future relocation and retirement to Stone County, appeared in your column. At that time we mentioned the wonderful people we had met here, and how we were looking forward to our retirement here.

Finally, our time has come! We are presently having a home built on the little Red River near the old town of Arberg. I've been here "supervising" construction since mid-May.

During the past 3½ months, our county road has been graded twice. The first time was a waste of time and money! However, during the past 2 weeks, the road was graded again, this time, by a gentleman by the name of Mr. Williams. (Don't know his first name). What a difference! A real professional job! ## Let's go to the fair

Members of the Stone County Fair Board have put in a great deal of their own time and effort recently to stage this year's version of the Stone County Fair, which begins today and carries on through Saturday.

Since its revival, the local fair has shown great improvements, in just about every area. The rides and midway have been improved, more and better events have been added to the competition and the fairgrounds have been spruced up, including the addition of a new barn which is designed to make it easier for fairgoers to view the livestock. New restrooms have also been constructed at the fairgrounds.

Because of financial limitations, the attractions at the Stone County Fair are not going to be on the same scale as the Arkansas State Fair at Little Rock. At the same time, however, the local fair has some things the state event doesn't have. That is, the fact that each and every display, project, jar of preserves, etc. is guaranteed to be homemade by our own friends and neighbors, and every cow, pig and chicken has been raised on Stone County farms.

So here's a chance to go out and take a look at a showplace of everything a lot of local folks have been working on for a long time. Let's all go out and support the Stone County fair with a good show of attendance.

By Wally Wellman

Reading an article in the "Arkansas Times" magazine this month concerning the clearcutting of timber in Arkansas made me think about a couple of different things.

Clearcutting, for those who are not familiar with the term, means exactly what the name implies. It is a method of harvesting timber, used in many different areas of the country, (including Arkansas) by timber and forest products companies. Giant bulldozer-like machines rumble through the forest, cutting down each and every tree within sight.

According to the article, the trees are cut so low that hardly even a stump is left. The companies defend the practice, saying they replant the trees to keep the "forest" intact, and insist that the roots left from the butchered trees will hold the soil and continue to prevent erosion. Environmentalists and other persons opposing the practice of clearcutting claim it actually destroys the forests as we know them today. And in fact, it does seem that the squirrels, turkey, deer and other wildlife that live off the fruits of the giant "scaly barks" would have a hard time getting by on pine cones and needles.

Timber companies point out that their industry is one of the biggest employers in the state, and that the nation's paper and wood needs are growing bigger and bigger each day. True, clearcutting opponents say, but if each and every one of us would use just one paper towel instead of two or three, that situation may be able to be cut down.

With the current gas and oil "shortage" that is facing America today, the trend seems to be weaving against restrictive environmental laws that would tend to drive up the price of producing energy, wood products, etc.

Perhaps some of the environmental protection laws passed in America today are a bit too restrictive, and maybe all the red tape involved in their administration isn't worth what good is derived from it. Most of those laws are necessary, however, to protect the forests from its most evil enemy, mankind driven by the almighty dollar. Given a free hand, free of any pressure from environmentalists and other opponents of clearcutting, herbicide spraying and other questionable practices, the forests as we know them today could vanish by the time this generation's kids are big enough to take a hike in the woods.

News from the past

10 YEARS AGO

Officers were installed for the Stone County Jaycees last Thursday night at the Arkansas Power and Light building. Janice Sutton will serve as president for the 1969-70 term. Pat Deatherage will serve as first vice-president; Bernice Altman, second vice-president; Connie Crymes, secretary; Judy Franks, treasurer; and Nora Lou Kemp, historian.

The office of the Stone County Leader will be closed Friday and Saturday of this week to move to a new building. An expanded line of office supplies is planned, along with some new equipment for newspaper production and a better commercial printing department.

An official lease agreement was signed between the Cultural Center Commission Saturday, Sept. 6, and the Arkansas Publicity, Parks and Recreation Division. The lease gives the agency a 50-year lease on 320 acres, part of the land controlled by the Cultural Center Commission on which several developments are planned including the cultural center itself.

The Mountain View football team will go against Clinton next week in an effort to avenge the loss suffered to Heber Springs. Heber downed the inexperienced Yellow-jackets 44-0 in the season's opener. "We knew we weren't ready for Heber," said Coach Larry Nix, "but Clinton was beaten by Marshall; we think another week behind us we can beat them."

20 YEARS AGO

Wayne Moore was the big winner at the Stone County Free Fair held Sept. 10 through Sept. 12. Moore collected 332 points during the fair and was paid 25 cents for each point. Other big winners were Hayden Shannon with 240 points, Wallace Shannon with 220 points, Lawrence Lutes with 174 points and Elva Lee Shannon with 107 points. More than 160 people won points at this year's fair.

Mountain View's baseball team of boys 15 to 18 completed their season September 6 with a defeat by the Mountain View Independent team. Those on the boys team were Shirrell Williams, Jerry Lee Jefferies, Jim Cash, James Storey, Orby Partee, Freddy Ward, James Franks, Clinton Hinesley, Glen Anderson and Kenneth Sutton. The Coach was Jim Green. James Franks and James Storey tied for the most hits with 24 each.

Board hears complaints

principals and only one board member so it would not do any good for them to meet again since the board must make the final decision.

After much discussion, Ronnie Risner, president of the board, directed Supt. Rosa and J.W. Heck, the bus foreman, to look into each case presented and report back at the next meeting.

In other action concerning transportation, the board voted four to one to allow the Band Boosters Club to use school busses to take band members to football games and competition meets because the boosters said they would pay for the gas. Board member, Nancy Thompson was absent and did not vote.

Band boosters present at the meeting said they would pay for the gas for the trips out of their treasury and from pledges received from area merchants.

One booster said, "Competition is the spice of life. Students must have competition to achieve what they can achieve." Dallas Everett said that some parents of band students have been "out a lot of money" with expenses for band camp and instruments and he felt the band should be allowed to go to football games and competitions to play.

Turner told Everett that the only reason the board cut back on the band is because "we hated to ask people to have kids walk a mile and then run buses for other activities." He voted against the proposal.

The band will now be traveling to the solo and ensemble competition at Cabot on March 6 and 7, the district concert competition at the University of Central Arkansas in Conway on April 3 and 4, and two away football games.

Risner brought up the problem concerning cheerleaders not being allowed to ride the bus with the football players at the last away football game.

He said he did not know why Coach Ronnie Willis said there was not enough room for the cheerleaders on a 60 passenger bus, but Willis said that with all the players and equipment the bus was filled.

The bus seats 60 people, he continued, with three to a seat but "I don't want my boys to have to sit three to a seat." With 30 players, four managers, three coaches and four seats filled with equipment, the bus is overcrowded, he said.

Risner and Turner both said that they did not feel the school should pay for an extra car to take the cheerleaders as had been done last week. Rosa said that he felt the cheerleaders were part of the athletic program and suggested that the board allow Betty Allred to take the cheerleaders to the games in the drivers education car since "we have to pay $1.50 per day for the car anyway." Risner adamantly opposed the proposal.

Parsons said, "I think we're taking this cutting out thing too far. Cheerleaders are part of the athletic program." Algee said that he felt the school should provide a "sure way" for the cheerleaders to get to the game.

Willis said the girls would distract the players by riding the bus. He said his players do not talk on the bus, they concentrate on the game.

Joe Al Stewart, elementary principal, said that if the school paid for the cheerleaders to go to the games that would open the door for other requests. Rosa replied, "There's not ever going to be an end to the requests."

After much discussion, Stewart said he would donate $10 toward paying the gas for the cheerleaders. Rosa also put in $10. Board members, Cline Dearien, Lee Rector, and Parsons also donated. Heck and school teachers, Mike Stewart and Willis put in $10, and Algee also donated to the fund.

The board then voted three to two to allow the cheerleaders to go to the ballgames.

In other action the board voted to grant Clea Driftwood a year's leave-of-absence and hire Virginia K. Parsons to take her place.

The board also voted to compensate Kay Voyles and Robbie Purdom $100 per month or $900 for the year because they gave up their planning period to take over a class left without a teacher when Julia Foll resigned. Coach Willis will be compensated for three months when he will coach girls track.

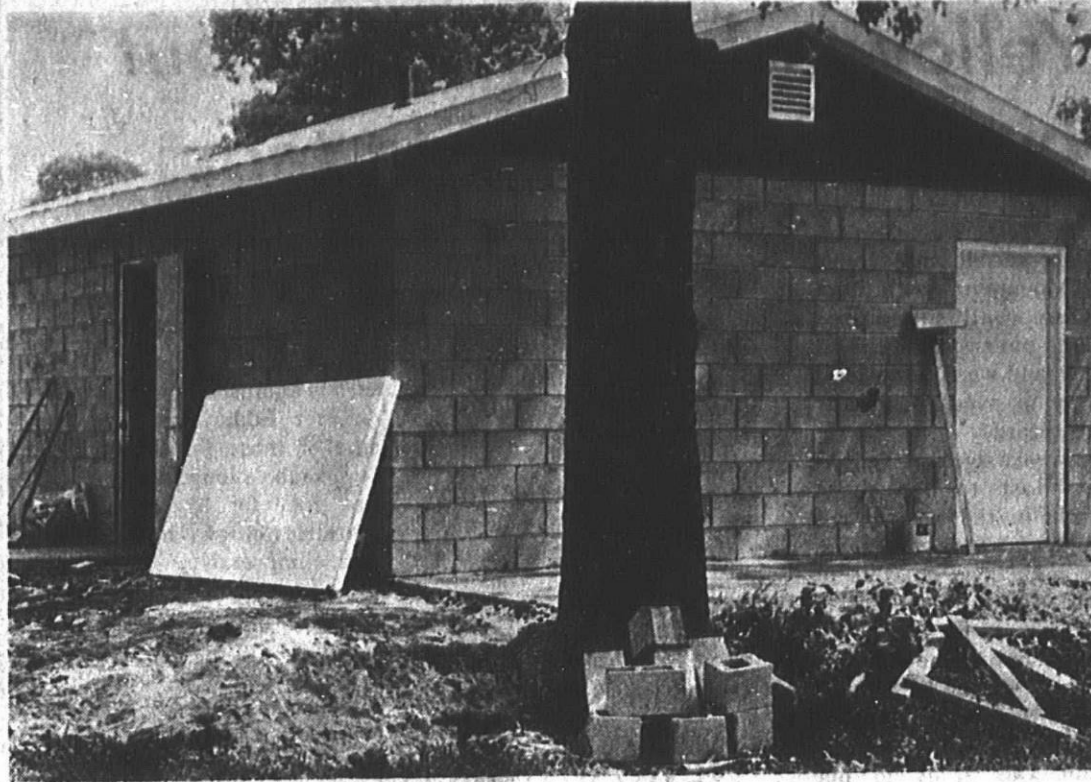

The board denied a request from Searcy County Special School Services to allow non-students to ride the Mountain View School Buses into the campus to be picked up by a van from Searcy County. Rosa said that he was informed that the school's insurance would not cover non-students.

Lois A. Pierson and Mrs. Glenn Davis were denied permission to ride the Pleasant Grove bus to school because the two busses that go to Pleasant Grove are overloaded, according to Heck.

The board accepted a bid of $411 from Mary Kay Chadwick for bus number 3, a 1966, 54 passenger bus. Other bids were received from Ralph Kirby, who bid $270 and Johnny M. Williams, who bid $263.

The board granted a request by Arkansas College to use one classroom on Saturdays for their Upward Bound Program, which is a program to provide additional scholastic help to students who need it.

In other action, the board voted to prepare and approve a bill of sale to Leonard Glenn for the bus he recently purchased.

New fairgrounds buildings

Visitors to this year's Stone County Fair will see two new buildings which were constructed recently at the fairgrounds. A new barn, which has a fenced perimeter, will allow visitors to get a better look at the livestock exhibits. A new restroom facility has also been constructed. The Stone County Fair gets underway today and carries on through Saturday night. A rodeo will be held at the Saddle Club Arena, adjacent to the fairgrounds.

Court pledges support

of times but was extended at the last minute. In case the program is extended again, the positions would be paid for from the CETA funds, but that is not expected to occur.

The four roads positions would cost the county $7,091.04 for the remainder of the year and the assessor's deputy post would cost $1,508.

In a matter concerning the disposal of alcoholic beverages confiscated in bootlegging raids, Gammill said he would comply with state law dictating the method of disposal even though the justices failed to rescind a vote to bury the beer, liquor and wine without further adieu.

After the court's last meeting, at which the justices voted to bury it, it was discovered that state law requires the contraband to be advertised for sale to licensed distributors in wet counties, with the profits derived to be split between the state and local governments. If no bids were submitted on the advertisements, then and only then could the material be buried. The law states failure of the county judge to follow the law would make him guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of between $50-$1,000, and a jail sentence from six months to one year.

After a few of the justices said in what seemed to be a joking manner, "let's send the judge to jail," the court actually split 4-4 on advising Gammill to follow the state law's instructions.

In apparent disregard of the statute, Justices J. R. Henderson, Thomas Williams, Bill Dobbins and Kathy Greenway voted against rescinding the previous motion, saying that since the people of the county voted the county dry, the county "should not be selling liquor."

Gammill said he "didn't understand" why the justices apparently were urging him to disregard the law, but he intended to comply with it. Justices Clesson Caston, Dave Bagum, Keith Balentine and Vernon Lawrence voted to rescind the motion and have the judge comply.

On a matter concerning securing land for an industrial park, the industrial committee recommended that the court wait until some final action could be taken concerning a proposed exchange of land between the City of Mountain View and the state before taking any action on purchasing land.

Council discusses Folk Center

increase the maximum after the carpenter for the project, Shane McElroy of Onia, estimated the cost to upgrade Mary Frances Franklin's home at $2,205 for labor and material.

On Tuesday, a work order was signed and Jack Teague from Mountain View will begin work on the sewer project on Webb Street today, the mayor said.

Safly Construction from Hot Springs will begin work on the water soon and the mayor said he hoped that Webb Street would be finished in "three or four weeks."

All the easements for the HUD project have been signed except four or five, according to the mayor, and the city has only had to pay one person for his easement.

"It's been almost a miracle to get this far and only have to pay for one," the mayor said.

In other business, the mayor told the council that next month the city would receive another allocation of federal revenue sharing money. He said that according to federal regulations, a public meeting is to be held to get public opinion on how the money should be spent.

He said that the next regular meeting of the council, Tuesday, Sept. 25, would be a public meeting to discuss spending revenue sharing money.

Veo Mitchell asked the council to consider spending some money to equip the city swimming pool so that swim meets may be held there. She said that Rick Matzen, swim instructor at the pool, told her that Mountain View had some "exceptionally good swimmers."

Senior citizens lose centers

who have been receiving the home chore program benefits will apparently continue to do so.

Since the home chore program was funded with 100 per cent Title XX funds, the director said, and everyone on the program had to be social services eligible, the program will not need to be cut. In addition, the agency's bus transportation program will continue to provide bus service to Mountain View one day per week.

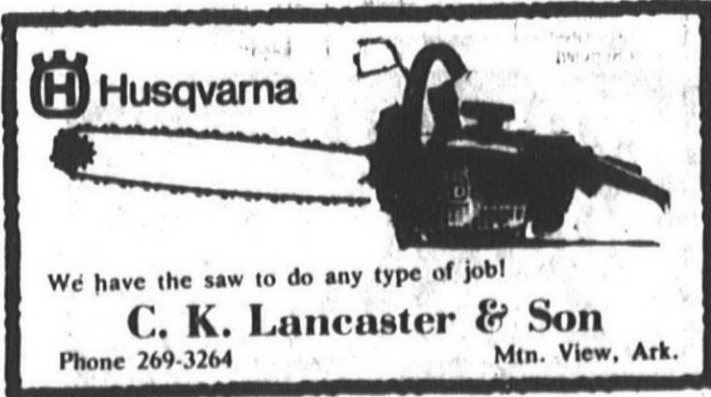

Goodwin commented that he was aware that residents would be saddened by the closing of the Fox and Pleasant Grove centers, and that he wished there were some way to keep the facilities open.

"We've gone over the budget several times trying to find a way to keep them open, but there just was no way," Goodwin indicated.

In addition to the loss of services, three persons, two center directors and one bus driver, will be laid off from their positions because of the closing of the two centers.

BY THE ARKANSAS GAME AND FISH COMMISSION

The state Game and Fish Commission has established final dates for the 1979-80 waterfowl season. Dates for the season, which will run continuously for 50 days, will be Nov. 17 - Jan. 5.

Arkansas duck hunters will again be under the point system, where the bag limit is reached when the last duck taken either reaches or exceeds 100 points. Point values for ducks are as follows:

Canvasback—100 pts.
Redhead, female mallard, wood duck, black duck and hooded merganser—70 pts.
Widgeon, pintail, blue-winged teal, cinnamon teal, green-winged teal, gadwall, shoveler, scaup and mergansers (except hooded mergansers)—10 pts.

Male mallard and all other species of ducks—25 pts.
Action to set dates for the season came at a special mid-week meeting. All other regulations pertaining to duck and goose seasons were established at its Aug. 20-21 regular meeting.

The state Game and Fish Commission's hunter education program has announced plans for its annual Central Arkansas Hunter Education Clinic, which will feature hunter education classes at 11 different locations at various times from Sept. 5-22.

Hunter safety coordinator Terry Horton emphasized the classes' importance by pointing out that from July 1, 1978 through June 30, there were 45 hunting accidents involving firearms, twelve of which resulted in fatalities. He said in most cases if the shooter had heeded basic firearm safety rules the accident would have been avoided.

On Sept. 22, National Hunting and Fishing Day, all students and instructors will meet at the Commission's Hunter Safety Training Area, east of Mayflower, for field training and live-firing exercises with shotguns, rifles, muzzleloaders and archery equipment. The courses are free and are open to anyone 11 years of age and over.

Following are locations, dates, time and phone numbers for the classes:

Pulaski Bank & Trust community room, Pierce & R Sts., Little Rock; Sept. 6, 13 & 20; 6 p.m. - 9 p.m.; 376-1994.

Laborers International Union of North America, 4501 W. 61st St., Little Rock; Sept. 17 & 18; 6 p.m. - 10 p.m.; 663-3666 or 562-1490.

St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 4106 JFK Blvd., North Little Rock; Sept. 14 & 20; 6 p.m. - 10 p.m.; 753-1998.

Pinnacle Mountain State Park visitors center, just east of Hwy. 300 North; Sept. 17, 18 & 20; 7 p.m. - 10 p.m.; 868-5606.

Boswell Community Center, Bryant, AR.; Sept. 17 & 18; 6 p.m. - 10 p.m.; 847-3718.

Horton said that while the classes are not mandatory in Arkansas, 29 states require a hunter education certificate. The Arkansas certificate is honored by all states and the provinces of Canada. For more information persons can call the Hunter Safety section at 224-4920 in Little Rock.

According to a report on elk made by the state Game and Fish Commission in 1951, there were approximately 75 elk in Arkansas when a special study was made in 1943, but by 1948 their population was estimated to be 25.

A senior and co-captain of the team, Bangs led the team in rushing with a total of 59 yards on 16 carries. His longest gain was 14 yards. "David gave us the leadership we needed to keep us alive in the ballgame," stated Bison head coach John Prock. An All-Arkansas Interscholastic Conference prospect, Bangs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bangs of Marcella.

By Wally Wellman
For the second consecutive week, Mountain View's high school football squad was unable to put two good halves together and were defeated in their try to even their early season record.

Two weeks ago the Yellowjackets lost to Jonesboro Westside in the second half after playing a very good game in the initial two quarters of play. This week, the 'Jackets regrouped at halftime, but couldn't overcome a 26-0 disadvantage they fell into in the disastrous first half.

"We're just going to have to get our kids ready to put together two good halves," coach Ron Willis said. "We went out there in the first half and sat on our cans and Vilonia put it to us. It's as simple as that."

Mountain View regrouped in the locker room at halftime and held Vilonia to only one second half touchdown to make the final score 32-0. The Jackets couldn't get on the scoreboard, however, as the Vilonia defense completely shut off their rushing game.

Mountain View gained negative (-6) yards on the ground, but quarterback Bill Rosa showed that if they can ever get some kind of running game established, the Yellowjackets might be able to give somebody all they want.

Rosa connected on 10 of 21 aerials against Vilonia, hitting receiver Eddie Passmore on nine of those for 112 yards. The combo's longest reception was good for 18 yards. The statistics might have been more impressive, but Rosa was also sacked five times for a loss of 19 yards.

The Yellowjackets' troubles began in the first half when Vilonia got into the scoring column using cross-back plays that threw off the 'Jackets linebackers. Vilonia, who played the game with only 15 players suited up, broke nine plays that were good for about 25 yards each before the runners were brought down.

"They had two good backs that hurt us," Willis said. "Our linebackers were getting faked out. They left home because they weren't reading right."

Robbie Tuma and David Branscum lead the defense for Mountain View against Vilonia, with Tuma getting ten tackles and three assists and Branscum getting nine unassisted tackles while being in on five more.

The victory made Vilonia 2-0 scoring 76 points to their opponents O. Mountain View will be looking for its first victory against the two defeats when it meets Salem at home tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

Yellowjackets worked on agility drills in practice this week.

BAPTISM — OF GOD OR OF MAN?

The above question was asked by our Lord of the religious leaders of His day with regard to the baptism of John (Matt. 21:25). They refused to answer the question because they were dishonest. But what about today? Are we any more willing to accept the Truth of God than were they? The baptism of the gospel, revealed in the New Testament, and commanded by the Lord Jesus Christ, is it of God or of man? If of man, then we may dispense with it as being non-essential and useless as it respects our duty and relationship to God and salvation. But if it is from God, and it is, then it is essential (necessary) to salvation, and to be pleasing to God, we must obey! God gives no non-essential commands or requirements! Reject the command of the Lord and we are guilty of rebellion against heaven! Our Lord said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved" (Mark 16:16).

Punt, Pass and Kick to begin

Local youngsters will get a chance to compete in the Punt, Pass and Kick competition on Saturday, September 29, at 1:00 p.m. when registration gets underway at the Mountain View football field. Young football enthusiasts from ages eight to 13 may enter the competition.

The competition is free of charge, and youngsters need only have a parent or guardian accompany them to register.

Eighteen trophies will be given away in the competition, with three given in each of the six age groups. There is no body contact in PP&K. The competition consists of punting, passing and place-kicking for distance and points.

First place winners in each age group will go on to the zone competition. From there, winners go on up the ladder through district, area, division and national finals. This year, the national finals will be held at Super Bowl XIV on January 20, 1980 at Pasadena, California.

Upon registering, each registrant receives a free PP&K Tips Book. In the 1979 edition, there are competition tips by NFL stars Pat McInally, Roger Staubach and Frank Corral. The Tips Book also includes complete PP&K rules and helpful conditioning exercises for contestants.

The PP&K event is co-sponsored by the Mountain View Athletic Booster Club and McClung Ford, Inc.

Gospel singing held in home

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Hinkle entertained with a gospel singing in their home on Saturday night. Attending were Mrs. Amy Jesson of California, Virgie and Dee Jesson, Doyle and Mildred Stubbs, Mrs. Lillie Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Birchfield, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ticer, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Hinesley, Mrs. Martha Mealer, Mr. Ludene Hudspeth, Mr. and Mrs. Lauda Brewer, Mr. Roy White, Hugh and Dell Williams, Mr. Jack Decker, Mr. Addler Williams, Mrs. Gladys Rorie, Mr. Howard Wade, Mr. Howard Nesbitt and grandchildren, Stacy and Cindy Nesbitt, Mrs. Debbie Tinkle and Michael and Millard Condrey.

Coach Ron Willis talked to his team this week, trying to instill a winning attitude in the players minds.

Jayvee squad loses to Marshall

Mountain View's junior high squad allowed only two long runs for touchdowns, but that proved to be too much last week as Marshall upended the Yellowjackets jayvee squad, 16-0.

Coach Ron Willis said the teams were pretty evenly matched, and despite the score, the statistics tended to bear out the coach's opinion. The Yellowjackets gained 109 yards to Marshall's 115 on the ground.

The difference in the two squads, Willis said, was that Marshall began practices about a week before Mountain View did, and they were "a little bit more prepared."

Marshall burned Mountain View on two long runs over right tackle, one for 47 yards and another for 32 yards in the third quarter for the winning margin.

Rusty Storey gained 45 yards and Tim Clark got 37 to lead Mountain View in rushing. Willis credited Gary Branscum with turning in a good job on defense.

The junior high gridders will take on Clinton tonight at 7:30 at home.

In seventh-grade action, Mountain View gave up two touchdowns and failed to get any points on the board in their opening game against Marshall last Thursday as the baby Yellowjackets were defeated 14-0.

Mountain View didn't even threaten any scoring in its first outing, Coach Jim McCarn said, mostly because of not having had very much time to have practices yet and because the team had consistently bad field position during the game.

"Our offensive execution was pretty bad, but I think that was because of our lack of practice," McCarn said. "But we're going to get better, we're going to win some games. We've got some good athletes on this team."

Marshall's team was quite a bit larger physically, the coach said, and even though Mountain View has 24 boys out this year, their inexperience hurt them.

"We've really just had a few minutes to show the boys where to line up," McCarn said.

Two bright spots did surface for the seventh-graders, however, as McCarn indicated

Brock Swann did an outstanding job defensively and John Allred showed signs of being a good throwing quarterback "as soon as we can get some protection so he can get the ball off."

The seventh-graders meet Clinton tonight at home beginning at 6:00.

Alcohol related cases head municipal court docket

Alcohol related cases again headed both the city and county court dockets when municipal court was held Friday, Sept. 7.

In city cases, Glen R. Pilcher pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated charges and was given a $500 fine and sentenced to 10 days in the Stone County Jail. One day was imposed with 10 days being suspended on the condition that Pilcher complete Driver Safety School and attend four Alcoholics Anonymous meetings by December 1. He must also have no alcohol related or driving offenses for one year and his drivers license will be suspended for a period of time to be determined by Driver Control.

Lindell Avey, David Ivy and Dale A. Vickery were also charged with driving while intoxicated with each receiving a $200 fine and one day in the county jail to be suspended upon completion of Driver Safety School and receiving no driving or alcohol related offenses for one year. Their drivers licenses will be suspended for a period of time to be determined by Driver Control.

Ivy was also charged with contempt of court and sentenced to two days in the County Jail for using profane language in the courtroom.

Kenneth Chamberlain, charged with drinking on the highway, forfeited his bail. James B. Clinkingbeard and Randy K. Smith, both charged with drinking in public also forfeited their bail. Leslie Mings forfeited bail on minor in possession charges.

Mings was also charged with possession of a controlled substance and forfeited bail. The same charges were brought against Suzanne Chambless but were dropped on a motion by the State. Robert H. McDonald III, charged with possession of a controlled substance, forfeited bond on a negotiated plea of guilty. He was fined $300 plus court costs.

Doyle Burns forfeited his bond on charges of reckless driving, fleeing from officers and destroying public property (criminal mischief). He was also found guilty of criminal mischief and disorderly conduct. He was fined $50 plus court costs for disorderly conduct and $100 plus court costs and two days in the county jail for the criminal mischief charge. Two days in jail and $100 of the fine were suspended on the condition that he make restitution by October 7, 1979.

David Ivy pleaded guilty to charges of disorderly conduct and was fined $25 plus court costs. Kelly Storey was charged with criminal mischief but the prosecuting witness was willing to drop the charges on the condition that Storey agree to pay for damage caused.

J.W. Bufford forfeited his bail on charges of failure to yield and Garry R. Lawrence pleaded guilty to charges of no vehicle license and was fined $20 plus court costs.

On the county docket, Kevin M. Larsen, Earl King, Elmer Henderson and James Spier were charged with driving while intoxicated. Spier was also charged with refusing to take a breath test but the State moved to drop charges and the request was granted.

All four pleaded guilty to the DWI charge and were fined $200 plus court costs and sentenced to one day in the county jail which was suspended on the condition that each defendant attend Driver Safety School and receive no driving violations for a period of one year. Their drivers licenses will also be suspended for a period of time to be determined by Driver Control. Paul Patterson pleaded not guilty to charges of drinking on the highway but then failed to appear in court on the date set for trial. Patterson then paid his ticket, thus forfeiting bail.

William L. Stewart and Arthur Kirby forfeited bail on charges of public drunkenness. Billy D. Long was fined $50 plus court costs after pleading guilty to over possession of alcoholic beverages in a dry county. Dwight Mitchell forfeited bond on the same charges.

Charles Burns pleaded guilty to minor in possession charges and received a $150 fine plus court costs. One hundred dollars of the fine was suspended upon the condition that Burns complete Driver Safety School and attend a designated number of Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. Jonny D. Branscum forfeited bond on the same charges.

David Ivy pleaded not guilty to charges of disorderly conduct but later changed his plea to guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Don L. Engles forfeited bond on charges of improper passing on the yellow line. Larry Dee Pillow and William K. Isch forfeited bond on charges of passing on the double yellow line.

Genevieve Dawson forfeited bail on charges of speeding and Jim D. Stapleton pleaded guilty to charges of overweight vehicle and was fined $50 plus court costs and $38.20 for overload charges. Forty dollars of the fine will be suspended upon the condition that Stapleton receive no overweight vehicle violations for one year.

James J. Roberts forfeited bail on charges of driving without a drivers license. The same charges were dropped against Dennis Stawers when he presented the court with a Missouri drivers license.

Bradley Anderson forfeited bail on charges of failure to maintain control and Brenda K. Tate took the same action on charges of allowing an unauthorized person to drive.

Defaulting secured creditor charges were dropped against Charles Burns on a motion by the State and Mac and Beverly McIntire were given until October 5 to pay their fine and court costs after show cause charges were brought against them.

Social Security seeks public aid

Jimmy Watkins, Manager of the Batesville Social Security office talked with us today about fraudulent activity which sometimes occurs in connection with the programs administered by the social security administration. He said that the public has a right to expect that measures have been taken by the social security administration to prevent unlawful invasion of the Trust Funds from which benefits are paid.

"Sometimes we detect suspected fraudulent activity ourselves through review of case files and other means," continued Mr. Watkins. "However, we are also dependent to a large degree on reports from the public regarding what they feel is fraud or improper receipt of checks."

"For instance, someone might see a person out working when they know for a fact that person is receiving a disability check and they will then call us and ask us about the situation. We would then be obligated to check into the matter."

"We have an obligation not only to see that people get what is due them but to protect the trust funds against improper payments," he concluded. "Therefore, we encourage anyone who thinks they know of a situation where a person is receiving checks under questionable circumstances to call us at the Batesville social security office. The phone number is 793-5731. Persons living in Fulton, Sharp, or Izard counties may dial 'O' and ask for Enterprise 10,001 for a toll free call to the Batesville office. Persons living in Baxter County should call 426-7550. Reports will be held in strictest confidence and may be made anonymously if so desired."

The Passing Scene

By Lee Wilcox

A Roman Catholic priest recently reported laughingly at Spokane that he "nearly fell off his chair" when he learned all 66 priests in the Diocese of Spokane covered by a group medical policy now have to pay 30c extra per month for maternity benefits.

William E. Simon, former Energy Czar and Treasury Secretary under two presidents and one of the best informed men in the country on energy matters, has a scathing report in the August issue of Readers Digest on government bungling on energy. His report is well worth reading by every person concerned about gasoline supplies and what our country can expect on energy.

Basically, Simon attributes our energy problems to governmental meddling in matters about which bureaucrats know very little, and their incredible bungling. He does not try to dodge responsibility for the part he played, and admits the seeds of the problem were sowed while he was energy czar.

He emphasizes the oil shortage is not so much a shortage per se as one of political courage dating back over a period of years. He says the shortage has been partially redressed by Carter's move to decontrol oil prices but that it has left a legacy of frustration and hardship for American drivers that will take years for the normal functioning of the market to dissipate.

He says the roots of the present dilemma date back to 1971 when President Nixon installed price controls on everything in a futile effort to halt inflation. By 1973 controls were lifted from everything except crude oil and gasoline.

When the Arab embargo hit additional controls were put on petroleum products supposedly to "protect the consumer".

As an internationally respected economist states: "If you want to create a shortage of any product simply have the government place a maximum price on the product which is less than would otherwise prevail" and you will quickly have your shortage.

Simon says that if President Ford had had the political courage to erase the controls we would now have no energy problem. Instead, concerned about his political future and the upcoming elections he extended the controls. Ford actually worsened the situation by signing one of the most perniciously inane pieces of legislation enacted in recent years.

Simon further says the federal government aggravated the situation when the EPA used the clean-air act to force car manufacturers to install expensive catalytic converters. These converters require cars to use lead-free gasoline. This kind of gasoline requires more crude oil than regular gasoline, thus increasing the demand for crude.

Refineries were unable to refine the quantities of unleaded gas needed by new automobiles, and under price controls they could not afford to invest the money needed to build additional refineries. Furthermore, environmentalists had fought every effort to build new refineries for some 15 years. Simon says the country needs at least 7 new refineries. Of 19 refinery projects initiated since 1960 all have been abandoned because of governmental regulations.

He says oil production is the original risky business. Of 10 wells drilled only one hits oil, and only 1 in 48 produces enough to justify pumping it from the earth.

As the world price of oil increases it becomes possible to explore isolated areas where oil is known to exist. But with price controls still in effect in the U.S. it is more profitable to drill in foreign countries where there are no controls. Americans have to pay higher prices because competition no longer operates in this country.

U.S. proven reserves are 28 billion barrels, and tests indicate they may exceed 75 billion barrels. This is greater than possessed by any other nation. A significant thing to remember is that only about 2% of U.S. land has been prospected for oil. That leaves 98% still to be prospected if the incentive were there to tempt prospectors. Much of the land where oil is suspected to exist lies in isolated areas difficult to reach where cost of prospecting is astronomical.

So long as oil can be bought from foreign countries at present prices much of the U.S. land will not be prospected.

Simon goes on to say that the government presuming to plan for every one has planned for no one. It has left only confusion and massive problems. Government officials look for scapegoats. It blames oil shieks and "obscene profits" of oil companies, ignoring the fact oil company profits are less than 5c per invested dollar, one of the lowest profit margins of any business category, and usually their expenditures in search for new energy sources are greater than their after-tax profits.

The Ole Sage says it's more fun to arrive at a conclusion than to justify it.

The heavy hand of central government is sometimes hard on small communities. Without knowing all the facts Blue Mountain Bill says he thinks the Quorum Court is right in refusing to pay the salary of a Probation Officer if it thinks one is not needed.

Some one has scribbled on the wall of the men's room of a Nevada club. "These four walls enclose the last refuge of Male Privacy".

Mozart Myrt called her husband's boss and told him, "Jim can't come in today. He lost his America Express card and can't leave home without it."

The Ole Sage says he has always marveled at how many have had their fenders smashed in a parking lot but has never heard of one who smashed anybody else's.

American shoppers are a strange breed. They rush to a "10% off sale", then pay carrying charges of 18%.

Heart's Output
If an average adult heart pumped continuously fresh blood, it could in 24 hours fill a 2,600 gallon tank.

Bluegrass show slated

A bluegrass music show featuring some of the top names in regional bluegrass music has been scheduled for September 21 and 22 at the Holiday Trav-L-Park at Sylamore.

The Tennessee Gentlemen, a bluegrass music group from Memphis which has been rated best overall group by the Society for the Preservation of Bluegrass Music of America, will headline the show.

The Tennessee Gentlemen have been rated as best band overall and best vocal band in the SPBGMA. In addition, Donny Catron, a vocalist for the Tennessee Gentlemen, was named best contemporary male vocalist, and Troy Castleberry was named best mandolinist.

In addition to the many other bluegrass musicians, two local groups, the Stone County Boys and the Izard County Boys, will be performing at the festival.

David Leatherman, vocalist for the Stone County Boys from Mtn. View, was named best traditional vocalist by SPBGMA last year, and Roger Fountain, of Pineville, was named best bluegrass fiddler by the organization.

In addition, Shirley Vaughn, of Parker Mountain Bluegrass, the winner of SPBGMA's best female vocalist competition, will be performing at the Sylamore event this year.

In addition to the above-named groups, New City Grass of Little Rock, Wooten Brothers of Center Ridge, Kenny Cantrell and Boys of Ft. Gibson, Oklahoma and the Buck Brush Bluegrass Band of Ava, Missouri, will be on hand.

Admission to the bluegrass show will be $3.00 on Friday and $4.00 on Saturday. Shows go from 2:00-6:00 p.m. and from 8:00-12:00 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday.

Our dear neighbors keep going away from our midst. Mrs. Imogene Taylor, the wife of Mr. Odus Taylor of the Blue Mountain Community passed away. She was the daughter of the late, Mr. and Mrs. Hughtan Shannon. A lover of the beautiful, always making pretty crochet, beads, quilts of all kinds. She liked to spread good cheer wherever she went. God bless her family and many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Heber Williams and family, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. Esper Shannon, Mrs. Alma (Brewer) Ramsey and husband, Mrs. Maxine Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackwood, Glenda Boren, Beverly Lachance, and many others that we didn't get names were here from different areas to attend Imogene's funeral.

Mr. Hugh Richardson of Missouri, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Richardson recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Vince Labardo of Trenton, New Jersey visited in our home during the weekend. Mrs. Labardo is the daughter of Mr. John Roberts. We had a nice visit with our dear ones.

Women's Club discusses fair

Boren visited Mrs. Otha Goodwin recently. My brother, Robert visited in our home during the time they were here and did a lot of work in the Ramsey Cemetery on relatives and friends graves there. They reported a lot more work needed to be done.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rose attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Tracey Storey at Clinton, recently. Tracey and husband are spending their honeymoon in Hawaii. We wish them a lot of luck and a happy useful life.

Mrs. Wilma Johnson brought me a bag of nice roasting ear whippoorwill peas and some muskmelons last week. They were really good.

Mrs. Eula May Ashley took Mrs. Geneva Everett a nice cake and visited her while she is not well. Thanks for all our good neighbors.

The Mountain View Business and Professional Women's Club met Tuesday, Sept. 4 at the Arkansas Power and Light Building for the monthly business meeting. There were 18 members present.

Club president Robbie Purdom presided over the meeting which was called to order with the reciting of the club collect. Susan Kemp kept the minutes of the meeting in the absence of club Secretary Velma Farr. The club appointed Jane Shipman as Treasurer as Pat Gullett has resigned the office.

Cicirello named health director

Dan Cicirello of Searcy has been named Director of the North Arkansas Health Services Center, a division of the North Arkansas Human Services System, Inc., according to an announcement made today by William Huddleston, Executive Director.

Prior to joining the Human Services System staff, Cicirello was Administrator of the Bureau of Community Health Services, Arkansas Department of Health. His duties also included administration of the Department's Hypertension Program.

The North Arkansas Human Services System is a private, non-profit corporation which seeks to develop needed health and social services for residents of a ten county area in North Central Arkansas. The corporation is under the direction of a volunteer citizens' Board of Directors with representation from each of the ten counties served.

The Human Service System has developed physical health clinics in Horseshoe Bend, Mountain View and, most recently, in Augusta. The System has also helped secure dental offices in Cave City and Salem and operates North Central Arkansas Mental Health Center Clinics in Cleburne, Fulton, Independence, Jackson, Sharp, Stone, Van Buren, White and Woodruff Counties. Other services provided by the system include alcoholism treatment facility located in Kensett, a shelter and treatment center for adolescents in Batesville and a chronic pain control center in Searcy.

As director of the Physical Health Division, Cicirello's responsibilities include administrative support for each of the physical health clinics and the development of new services to be provided by that division.

In addition to Cicirello, the North Arkansas Health Services Center staff is composed of four family practitioners, two dentists, four registered nurses, a speech pathologist, three lab technicians and a number of other support personnel.

A major effort is now under way by the system to develop a "Human Development" division which will offer programs aimed at the prevention of all types of illness. It is anticipated that this division will be operational in October. Where possible, the system is combining physical and mental health professionals in the same clinical setting, along with other appropriate support mechanisms available through

"By combining these treatment services with a strong program of health education, we are confident that great strides can be made in helping to improve the quality of life of those residents in our catchment area," Cicirello said.

60 pints donated at first blood drive

Sixty pints of blood were donated by local area residents at the first Red Cross blood drawing of this physical year held at the First United Methodist Church Friday, Sept. 7.

"We had a very good turnout," said James Dommert, chairman of the drive. The tables were never empty the whole afternoon.

The blood drawn Friday, as is true with all Red Cross blood, is free to patients who need it. The Red Cross does make a charge for processing the blood and the hospital makes a charge for administering it, Dommert said.

The next drawing will be Friday, Dec. 14 and since the time required between drawings is 56 days, anyone that donated blood this time will be able to donate again at the next drawing, Dommert noted.

News from the county library

Three new books, just for fun, are available at the Stone County Library. Light fictions continues to be a favorite among readers of all ages.

The Tavern Wench by Sarah Farrant is a book of a great charade played for wealth and prestige. Keziah Gilchrist, a tavern wench in a rowdy London alehouse is stopped on her way home from work late one night. A stranger offers her all the things she's ever wanted if she'll pretend to be the long, lost niece of an ailing dowager.

In spite of her misgivings, Keziah leaves a life where all she has to look forward to is "one drunk after another, to meet her new 'family.'" At an estate in Yorkshire she finds a chatty "cousin" Violet, an aloof "cousin" Charles, and a distinguished Lady Rutledge, who seems all too lively to be as sick as the solicitor had claimed.

Just as everything is going along fine, dressed in her silks and velvets becoming the belle of the ball, Keiah finds that her past is being investigated. She finds out rich "cousins" are not as rich as they seem and then a lady that is her exact look-alike turns up.

An English author, Barbara Whitehead, gives us a glimpse of Regency England in her book, The Caretaker Wife.

The brief peace with Napoleon ended, handsome naval Lieutenant Richard Welby is recalled to service with Lord Nelson's navy. On the eve of his departure he marries Caroline Hill hoping she could take care of his five children and rescue his debt-ridden estate.

Confident that she can handle both jobs well, Caroline comes to Curveys Court. She seeks first to win the affection of the five Welby children and then to unravel the snarl of her husband's business affairs.

Knowing the odds are against her and that there will be people against her, she sets out to accomplish her ends only to find an enemy she never guessed would cause her problems—the dead Lady Kitty. Richard's ravishing first wife, though dead, still causes havoc among the members of the Welby household.

Everyone in the house had strong emotions about Lady Kitty from the nursemaid who planned a bizarre revenge, to the young Italian footman who told a tale of forbidden pleasures.

As Caroline becomes involved in this drama of secret vices, she, too, comes to regard Lady Kitty as the enemy she might not vanquish.

This book combines deft portraits of eighteenth-century town and country life with an unusual story about a determined woman's commitment to a difficult romance.

Angelica by Samuel A. Schreiner, Jr. is a novel based on the life and times of Angelica Kauffmann, one of the most scandalous ladies of her time.

This is a story of a woman who achieved success on her own terms in an age that belongs to men. She, being delightfully provocative and profoundly gifted, numbered among her clients and admirers kings, queens, and some of the most brilliant and famous men of the time—Goethe, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Samuel Johnson and David Garrick.

Schreiner writes this book with the color, authenticity and verve as Thine is the Glory, another of his works.

Visit the Stone County Library soon and find out what books can bring to your life or those of your children.

Boards discuss bus routes

Transportation costs seem to be the biggest problems facing county school boards, as Fifty Six, Timbo and Rural Special all have indicated that they are either in the process of or planning to cut back on bus service.

Fifty Six superintendent L.C. Meuir said that the school board was notified by the State Department of Education that they would have to cut their bus routes. He said that the problem will be discussed by the board with the bus drivers at the next school board meeting planned for Friday, Sept. 21.

At the last Fifty Six School Board meeting held Thursday, Aug. 30, the board voted to hire Martha White Rettig to teach kindergarten. Meuir had said that Fifty Six was not planning to have kindergarten this year because they did not have enough students.

He said the state told him that unless Fifty Six had 12 students, the school could not receive full funding for the program. Meuir continued, "I don't know why they made a change but they called me a couple of weeks ago and said that Fifty Six would get full-funding for kindergarten this year." Meuir said he immediately began looking for a teacher, and Rettig was among three teachers who applied for the position. "She was the only one really qualified to teach kindergarten," he commented.

Fifty Six has only three students enrolled in kindergarten at this point but Meuir said there were more students in the district. To alleviate the problem next year, the superintendent said he plans to hold pre-registration for kindergarten and all grades in the spring before school is dismissed for the summer.

The Rural Special School Board has made no "drastic changes" in the bus routes, according to Phillip R. Rushing, Superintendent. "We have consolidated stops and have begun leaving all busses at the ends of the routes, to avoid doubling back."

Rushing said the board plans to have the four routes drawn out and cut down on the over-all mileage.

In other business, the board voted to advertise the sale of two school busses and hire a new secretary. Rushing said the new bookkeeping system that they began last year is "too much for one to handle." The board also voted to pay the difference between the cost of hospitalization insurance and the amount that the state pays, making all teachers' hospitalization insurance free to them.

The Timbo School Board has held several special meetings on the transportation problem. Leverl Balentine, Superintendent, said that Timbo was trying to cut down the bus routes "where we can," but emphasized that they wanted to "treat everyone equally."

Balentine said that some of the students are now walking a quarter to a half mile to catch the bus to save gas. The board is also planning to consolidate routes and stops and cut out dead-end routes. The school board also plans to re-route some routes to save mileage. The superintendent said, "People have been very co-operative and understanding. We haven't had too many difficult problems."

Attempted suicide reported

Kathleen Lacy, 29, of Luber Route, was discovered unconscious in the front seat of her car last Saturday after she apparently attempted to commit suicide.

Officers found Lacy, the mother of two children, in the car with a garden hose attached to the rear exhaust through the window on the drivers side. Her car was parked in a gravel pit on Gaylor Road.

After she was reported missing, Deputy Clarence Smith of the sheriff's department located her at the gravel pit. She was transported to Mountain View General Hospital where she has been removed from the coronary care unit and was in stable condition Tuesday, according to hospital officials. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, Lacy's parents, reported her missing after receiving a phone call from her children saying that she was not home when they arrived from school on Friday, Sept. 7.

The Jones' came to get the children and discovered several empty pill bottles on a table. They told police they felt Lacy might have attempted suicide.

The sheriff's department began looking for Lacy on Friday but were unable to locate her until Saturday after receiving a phone call from a person they said had seen her car, a 1966 white Ford Fairlane on Gaylor Road.

Mac Frampton to perform

Mac Frampton comes to the Ozark Folk Center Auditorium in Mountain View, as the first attraction of the White River Performance Series 1979-80 season. The show will begin at 8:00 p.m., Monday, September 17, and should be a smash, judging from his appearance here two years ago and his growing national reputation.

Critical comment along the way indicates that Frampton is currently one of the hottest young performers on the international concert circuit. When he starts playing you know you're hearing an unusual talent! It's musical charisma, musical soul, musical dynamite. The crux of the matter is this - Frampton is a great artist. As an artist, his aims are to excite the ear and eye, engage the mind, and encourage the imagination to linger on the event.

Unlike most of the top groups around, Mac Frampton's sound is not rock. His unique brand of musical showmanship reaches well beyond rock to include an astonishing variety of tastes, moods and styles. In fact, his "rock-alternative" sound is one of the few really successful innovations to emerge on the concert scene in recent years. Mac's show features his dazzling keyboard acrobatics, fine, intricate drum work and a driving, percussive bass. If you haven't heard Mac Frampton on records, on television, or in concert before, it should be worth a trip to the Ozark Folk Center Auditorium on September 17 to see for yourself what his phenomenal popularity is all about.

Admission is by membership only. For further information call membership chairman Jo Widmer at 585-2511, or memberships may be secured at the door.
