

Recreation Areas Jammed With Tourists Over July 4th

Campgrounds and recreational areas in Stone County, particularly in the Ozark National Forest, were one big mass of activity throughout this Fourth of July holiday. Areas in the forest that were busiest were Blanchard Springs, Gunner Pool and Barkshed, and all accessible spots on all creeks and White River were filled to capacity. It was reported by the National Forest Service that in the Blanchard Springs recreational area alone about 16,000 visitors took advantage of the facilities offered during the four days from Saturday through Tuesday. It was pointed out, however, that about 4,000 of these people were those who were just visitors in the area for a short time to swim or picnic while the remaining 12,000 were visitors for more than the visitor day period of 12 hours.

Doyle Lawrence, who helped tabulate the number of visitors at the camping, picnicking, and swimming holes, said that 21 states were represented with Tennessee following Arkansas as the leading state. "At one time Tuesday, there were about 400 people swimming at Blanchard alone," Lawrence said, "and the camp sites were filled. At Gunner Pool, 102 were camping Sunday and Barkshed was jam packed. Over 300 campers registered for Tuesday night alone at Blanchard with 186 booked for the cabins." Only two minor accidents were reported during the holiday in the recreational areas with the most extensive damage amounting to about $20. "We feel that much of this safety was due to our keeping the road leading to Blanchard off Hwy 14 a one way drive,"

Lawrence commented. "Accidents were down considerably over last year although there were no serious ones last year." This was the first time the forest department has aided in traffic control and patrolling the camp areas. Several cars would be allowed to travel either to or from Blanchard while other cars were held for their turn making it one way each time a column started with a forest truck escort. "It would usually average about 12 minutes to make the trip with a line of cars," Lawrence added, "and this is much faster than it would have been with all of the traffic jams that would have occurred that would have taken from 30 to 40 minutes to untangle." Forest officials also reported the visitors to be very cooperative with them and expressed their appreciation for their service.

The necessity for making the highway a one-way drive was due to the contractors requesting that no cars be allowed to travel over the road that is under construction leading past Blanchard Springs Caverns. Although crowds seemed to indicate that facilities were used to maximum, it was reported that fewer people visited this year than last, and the reason given was that of recent rains and cool weather. Some of the camp sites reported as high as 37 to a party with two or three others numbering 15 to 18 people. Campers in general expressed satisfaction in services offered, and one couple from Texas stated the feeling that prevailed by saying "the Ozarks offered us the most pleasant camping trip that we have had, and we have camped

Liquor Violations Charged Friday

Officers arrested Bill Burroughs of Mountain View Friday, June 30, and charged him on four counts of Arkansas Liquor Law violations. Burroughs has three cases of liquor violations pending in circuit court on appeals from Justice of the Peace court and two cases pending filed from the spring session of circuit court on charges of tampering with the witnesses.

A $3,000 cash bond was set, but Burroughs' lawyer, Bill Walmsley, filed a writ of certiorari with Circuit Judge Andrew Ponder contesting the legality of the bond contending that the bond was unreasonable and violates the U. S. constitution and Arkansas statute.

Sheriff Charles Rosa and J. P. I. W. Walker, then asked the Attorney General's Office to make a ruling on whether or not the cash bond was legal. Under present laws, an attorney General's ruling stands up until the law is appealed or over ruled by the supreme court.

Trial has been set for J. P. Court on July 13. Burroughs was charged with: 1. possessing alcoholic liquor for sale. 2. selling liquor in a legally dry territory. 3. selling alcoholic liquor without a state license. 4. possessing more than the legal amount of liquor in a dry territory.

Charges number one and three carry penalties of not less than $50 but not more than $500 or imprisonment of not more than six months or both; charge number two results in a fine of not less than $100 or more than $1000 increasing to a $200 to $2000 fine for second offense and from 1 to 5 year in the state penitentiary for the third offense; the fourth charge nets a fine of not less than $50 or more than $500.

No word had been received from the Attorney General's office at noon Wednesday.

Arresting officers were Sheriff Charles Rosa and deputy sheriff L. C. Green.

Cause of Death Undetermined

AP&L Workmen Dies While On Job Friday

Daniel E. "Danny" Bagby, 24, of Mountain View was killed Thursday, June 29, about 11:00 a. m. while working on power lines east of Mountain View. He was employed by the Arkansas Power and Light Company.

Authorities have been unable to definitely say what the cause of death was, but the death certificate indicated that he was electrocuted. An investigating team for the power company was unable to find any evidence that contact had been made by high voltage wires, but would not say that such contact had not been made. A report will be issued later by the investigating team.

Bagby, along with Eddie Taylor and Glen Weaver, was installing a larger transformer near Borden Vicker's home when the accident occurred. They had been lowering the neutral lines to make room for the larger transformer, and Danny had already tied the line into the pole and was tightening the nut on the bolt through the pole at the lower position.

Taylor was working near the house, and Weaver was working directly below the pole on which Danny was working.

"I heard Danny groan," Weaver said, "and I saw him slump in his safety belt. I yelled to Eddie for help, and we both climbed the pole to get him down. Borden Vickers helped us lower him to the ground." "I didn't see anything happen nor hear anything," commented Taylor, "and what happened is as much a mystery to me as anyone."

Both men tried to revive him after lowering him to the ground by giving artificial resuscitation and two other power and light employees, Johnny Bennett and Coy Cowell, tried similar methods on the way to the hospital.

Doctors could find no burns or signs of an electric current entering or leaving the body, but would not say that he had not at least received shock enough to kill him. No autopsy was performed, however.

Ralph Roush, manager, of the Ark. Power & Light office here, said "what happened out there is really unknown. We have checked every possible clue and are still unable to determine how and what happened. We can only assume that he was electrocuted."

Power employees and members of the investigating team lowered the line which was being worked on and thoroughly searched for telltale burned marks, but nothing at all could be found. Danny just recently returned from a week of apprentice lineman schooling in Little Rock.

There had been some report that a possibility of him being struck by lightning existed at the time since it had been lightning earlier, but no evidence or confirmation support this report either.

Danny was born in Mountain View and lived here all of his life graduating from Mountain View High School in 1961.

Funeral services were held Saturday, July 1, at 2:00 p. m. at Flatwoods Cemetery. (See obituary on inside page).

This was the third fatality recorded for AP&L since locating a line here more than 20 years ago.

Passengers Escape Injury

A muddy runway at Harry E. Wilcox Memorial Field caused a near disaster when two men from Arkansas Power and Light Company landed last week. The two men, Roscoe Williams and Jim Bentley, were with the safety department of the AP&L who came to investigate the death of an employee, Danny Bagby. The plane had already landed, but the mud caused the plane to slide into the ditch along the runway damaging the wing and propeller.

One Of The Scenic Wonders Of America

DISCOVER America? It has been done. Who doesn't know about Yellowstone and Yosemite, the Grand Canyon and the Petrified Forest, Crater Lake and Monument Valley, Carlsbad Caverns and Mammoth Cave?

Well, move over, Carlsbad. And make a little room there, Mammoth. There is a cave, down in the Sylamore district of the Ozark National forest in north-central Arkansas, that belongs somewhere between you. A cave with the giant halls, subterranean rivers and dark mystery of Mammoth, with the unbelievable huge chambers and spectacular formations of Carlsbad.

Blanchard Springs is its name. It is getting ready to take its place as a national attraction in the American outdoors, far beyond that point-in beauty and in size-that marks the limit of most caves open to the public.

It is not open, not yet.

It won't be until Congress frees enough money to make the cave ready for visitors.

The cave, named for John H. Blanchard, a Civil war veteran and early homesteader, was known by Indians and settlers of the 1800's. But few, if any, of them walked its halls; its entrance-a dark, deep pit filled with the sound of roaring water - discouraged visitors. It was not until 1955 that spelunkers began exploring the cave.

In 1963, explorers found a way through a chaotic jumble of stone high up on a steep slope

Nothing. They could not have known the immensity of the chamber they stood in. They could not know it was a football field wide, that it stretched a quarter of a mile, and that beyond it lay another gigantic room.

They could not see that the walls of the chamber were totally covered with flowstone, that magnificent columns stretched from the floor to the ceiling, out of sight far above; that the floor was forested with giant stalagmites and the ceiling with stalactites. They could not see the beautiful pools, the brilliant colors waiting for light and for eyes to see them.

But eventually, they saw it all. They came back, with more light, and stared until they were exhausted. They left, then, and told the Forest service what they had seen. Their words did not fall on closed minds. The forest service listened, and went to see for itself.

For the next three years plans for development of the cave were

Airport Expansion

The incident resulting from a muddy runway at the Harry E. Wilcox Memorial Field last week causing a near disaster throws added light on the problem that is prevalent concerning Mountain View's air travel facilities. (See picture and related story on page one).

Mountain View has done much recently to enhance the industrialization of the county's economy, but has yet to take any direct action of improving existing airport facilities.

The now existing 2300 feet unpaved runway is grossly inadequate to handle any sizable planes, and only during good weather can small planes land safely.

In other cities throughout the state, the ones to get new plants are invariably the ones with adequate airports. The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission has said that one of the biggest deciding factors in locating a plant is whether there is a good airport or the promise of improvement to existing facilities.

AIDC has said virtually all out-of-state firms insist that branch factories locate in towns where company officials can visit the plants via airplanes. Some of the Arkansas cities to get plants due to nearness or available airports include, Camden, DeQueen, Booneville, Mountain Home, Blytheville, Prescott, Jonesboro and others.

Jimmy Woodard, Executive director of the Arkansas Department of Aeronautics, said, "Airports draw industry like flowers attract bees. A national survey reveals that 95 per cent of prospective new industries require an airport near a building site."

Woodard also emphasized the fact that during World War II most factories located in large cities, but are now switching to the small towns, and that the airports were becoming more and more important.

July 1 began the new fiscal year for the state, and the Aeronautics Department will get its first $100,000 to help cities and towns build and improve airports. The money will derive from a three cents a gallon tax on aviation fuel, which formerly went to the Highway Department.

Mountain View officials have already informed Woodard of the town's need for airport improvement, and have been informed that the maximum amount available for such improvement could possibly be obtained after the city makes proper applications and acquires additional land needed for at least a 3600 feet runway.

If approved, the city could get $10,000 to go toward paving the airport. The first $5,000 would be turned over to the city after one-half of the work was completed with the remainder being received at the finish of the project.

The terrain lays in such a way that would accommodate about a 4,000 feet runway which would be more than enough space to land planes as big as a DC-3 which will carry about 45 passengers.

And with the development of the Blanchard Caverns and the Cultural Center much charter service is expected to be needed. Such county developments along with expected industry tends to indicate, therefore, that increased considerations concerning the airport in Mountain View would inspire many aspects directly attributed to the good of all Stone County residents.

Industry Aids Housewife

Recently at a Conference on Advertising in Washington, D.C., Daniel Peterkin, Jr., president Morton International, said, "The American housewife spends only 11 hours a week cooking for her family. This is less than half the time it took her before she enjoyed the multitude of convenience foods now available at every grocery store."

BY JAMES E. FRANKS

After listening to the rumblings of the debate among state officials on whether or not the eligibility of the proposed appointee of Governor Rockefeller to head the State Police, it seems ironical that such an issue would come about in the first place.

The Attorney General's office has ruled that the men that Rockefeller wants for the job is ineligible because he has been living out of the state. The Attorney General has said that a 1945 law states that a person must have lived the past 10 years within the state before he could be placed in the job.

And although the man may be one of the top in his field and more capable than anyone else of filling the state's needs in a police director, the law says he should not have the position. Yet, it seems, unless the courts decide otherwise if the appointment is contested, the governor is hiring a man unlawfully to uphold the state laws--confusing isn't it.

Although I really don't mind if a person lends his newspaper to his neighbor, as long as everyone in the county reads it, it does sometimes present problems either to the lender or the borrower. I came across an article the other day relating an incident involving such an act that could strike home. Here it is:

A man, somewhat reluctant to subscribe to the home town newspaper, sent his little boy to borrow a copy from his neighbor. In haste the boy ran over a stand of bees, and in ten minutes, he looked like a wart summer squash. His father ran to his assistance and failing to notice the barbed wire fence, tore and ruined a $9 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, got into the field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the commotion, his wife ran out, upset a 4-gallon churn of cream into a basket of little chickens, drowning the entire hatch.

The baby, being left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor, ruining a brand-new carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter eloped with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens and calves got out and chewed the tails off four shirts on the clothes line.

Moral: Don't borrow your neighbor's paper; it's too risky.

A PERSONAL MESSAGE

To my friends and neighbors in Stone County! I want to thank you for your attendance at the Cloud Cathedral Airatorium the past few nights. I want also to tell you who haven't yet come why I am holding these meetings. As many of you know, for health reasons, I have been unable to hold Evangelistic meetings like this for several years. That is why Mrs. Lemon and I are retired here on our farm, where as many of you also know, I was literally buried alive in concrete when a barn fell on me last October. Since the Good Lord saw fit to spare my life, I feel I have a spiritual obligation to Him and to you my neighbors of this county! That is why I am holding this Special Series of meetings in this Airatorium now in Mtn. View. This is not an ordinary revival as you can see, and in these meetings you will learn God's Last and Greatest Message to Man! If you are converted in these meetings you can join the church of your choice. We are making it possible also for each of you not only to learn much more from the Bible; but to own a lovely new Bible simply for faithful attendance, besides giving you other lovely gifts that will help you have a closer walk with the Lord, and which we trust you will ever treasure! Please pray and have all your friends pray for me that I may have the health, and be able to, help you make these meetings what God would have them to be, and that we all may have a closer walk with God! Yours in Christ.

Airport Expansion

The incident resulting from a muddy runway at the Harry E. Wilcox Memorial Field last week causing a near disaster throws added light on the problem that is prevalent concerning Mountain View's air travel facilities. (See picture and related story on page one).

Mountain View has done much recently to enhance the industrialization of the county's economy, but has yet to take any direct action of improving existing airport facilities.

The now existing 2300 feet unpaved runway is grossly inadequate to handle any sizable planes, and only during good weather can small planes land safely.

In other cities throughout the state, the ones to get new plants are invariably the ones with adequate airports. The Arkansas Industrial Development Commission has said that one of the biggest deciding factors in locating a plant is whether there is a good airport or the promise of improvement to existing facilities.

AIDC has said virtually all out-of-state firms insist that branch factories locate in towns where company officials can visit the plants via airplanes. Some of the Arkansas cities to get plants due to nearness or available airports include, Camden, DeQueen, Booneville, Mountain Home, Blytheville, Prescott, Jonesboro and others.

Jimmy Woodard, Executive director of the Arkansas Department of Aeronautics, said, "Airports draw industry like flowers attract bees. A national survey reveals that 95 per cent of prospective new industries require an airport near a building site."

Woodard also emphasized the fact that during World War II most factories located in large cities, but are now switching to the small towns, and that the airports were becoming more and more important.

July 1 began the new fiscal year for the state, and the Aeronautics Department will get its first $100,000 to help cities and towns build and improve airports. The money will derive from a three cents a gallon tax on aviation fuel, which formerly went to the Highway Department.

Mountain View officials have already informed Woodard of the town's need for airport improvement, and have been informed that the maximum amount available for such improvement could possibly be obtained after the city makes proper applications and acquires additional land needed for at least a 3600 feet runway.

If approved, the city could get $10,000 to go toward paving the airport. The first $5,000 would be turned over to the city after one-half of the work was completed with the remainder being received at the finish of the project.

The terrain lays in such a way that would accommodate about a 4,000 feet runway which would be more than enough space to land planes as big as a DC-3 which will carry about 45 passengers.

And with the development of the Blanchard Caverns and the Cultural Center much charter service is expected to be needed. Such county developments along with expected industry tends to indicate, therefore, that increased considerations concerning the airport in Mountain View would inspire many aspects directly attributed to the good of all Stone County residents.

Industry Aids Housewife

Recently at a Conference on Advertising in Washington, D.C., Daniel Peterkin, Jr., president Morton International, said, "The American housewife spends only 11 hours a week cooking for her family. This is less than half the time it took her before she enjoyed the multitude of convenience foods now available at every grocery store."

from the EDITOR'S NICHE

BY JAMES E. FRANKS

After listening to the rumblings of the debate among state officials on whether or not the eligibility of the proposed appointee of Governor Rockefeller to head the State Police, it seems ironical that such an issue would come about in the first place.

The Attorney General's office has ruled that the men that Rockefeller wants for the job is ineligible because he has been living out of the state. The Attorney General has said that a 1945 law states that a person must have lived the past 10 years within the state before he could be placed in the job.

And although the man may be one of the top in his field and more capable than anyone else of filling the state's needs in a police director, the law says he should not have the position. Yet, it seems, unless the courts decide otherwise if the appointment is contested, the governor is hiring a man unlawfully to uphold the state laws--confusing isn't it.

Although I really don't mind if a person lends his newspaper to his neighbor, as long as everyone in the county reads it, it does sometimes present problems either to the lender or the borrower. I came across an article the other day relating an incident involving such an act that could strike home. Here it is:

A man, somewhat reluctant to subscribe to the home town newspaper, sent his little boy to borrow a copy from his neighbor. In haste the boy ran over a stand of bees, and in ten minutes, he looked like a wart summer squash. His father ran to his assistance and failing to notice the barbed wire fence, tore and ruined a $9 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence, got into the field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the commotion, his wife ran out, upset a 4-

gallon churn of cream into a basket of little chickens, drowning the entire hatch.

The baby, being left alone, crawled through the cream into the parlor, ruining a brand-new carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter eloped with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens and calves got out and chewed the tails off four shirts on the clothes line.

Moral: Don't borrow your neighbor's paper; it's too risky.

Springtime brings on a restless urge to get out of the house, to run a quick errand, to share a cup of coffee with a neighbor. Fine. But don't leave small children alone in the house while you're out!

Hundreds of children die in fires each year because parents left them alone "for just a few minutes," National Fire Protection Association records show.

Sometimes the children start the fires, playing with matches or stoves. Sometimes fire simply chooses this moment to strike.

For your children's safety, always take them with you when you leave the house, or put them in charge of a competent older family member or babysitter.

hashed out; the cave-at least that part of it that is relatively easily accessible-was surveyed; cost estimates were figured. Finally, last year, work started.

There were problems, of which money was No. 1. "When I toured Mammoth cave," Wayne Shuttleworth, Sylamore district ranger, told me, "we talked about the cost of work in a cave. One man told me, 'Figure the cost above ground, multiply it 10 times, and you'll be close.'" He was right.

There were other problems. The first four area-the huge chamber (now the Cathedral room) and its next-door neighbor (the Coral room - was far back in the cave, too far to haul in the materials and equipment needed-not to mention the men. Solution: a map of the cave was plotted on a topographic map, elevations figured and boom!-a tunnel was blasted into the Coral room.

The natural entrance to the cave was dangerous; it was impossible to consider it as the tour entrance. Solution: an elevator shaft was bored 216 feet down through the mountain.

"Remember," cautioned Shuttleworth, "this was the first time we had done something like this. Everything was 5,000 trout a week are being stocked in the Little Red River below Greers Ferry Dam. Jim Collins, biologist with the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, is shown assisting the personnel of the National Fish Hatchery in introducing Rainbow trout into the river at Lobo Landing near Heber Springs.

Greers Ferry and Little Red River

Stocked With Rainbow Trout

There's a rainbow awaiting you in the Greers Ferry area near Heber Springs.

Of course, we are referring to the scrappy rainbow trout that have been stocked in Greers Ferry Lake and in the Little Red River below the dam, adding just one more attraction to the growing recreational complex developing around this northcentral Arkansas reservoir.

Trout fingerlings were first introduced into the tailwaters of the dam last September when 273,000 trout, 3 to 5 inches long were released. These were the first fish raised in the new Greers Ferry National Fish Hatchery.

Trout will grow approximately a half inch a month, according to Maurice Bryant, manager of the hatchery, and many of this original "seed stock" has now grown to good "keeping" size fish. In addition to this initial stocking, some 8,500 trout, 10 to 14 inches long, were introduced into the river in May to inaugurate a regular stocking program that now averages 5,000 fish a week. The stocking is spread out over five locations in the 20 miles below the dam to the low water bridge at Pangburn, Arkansas.

Many anglers are already catching their limits and the popularity of the area is assured. One of the biggest problems, at this time, is a shortage of public use areas on the river but new access areas are in the making and will be opened to the fishermen as fast as land can be acquired and launching ramps developed.

The most popular use area is below the dam, adjacent to the National Fish Hatchery. Here, bank fishing is filling many creel and a boat launching ramp provides ready access for the float fisherman. A picnic area and a primitive campground have been developed at this site for the family outing and the nearby hatchery provides an interesting, as well as educational, tour.

A second public launching ramp has been built by the State Game and Fish Commission at Lobo Landing east of Heber Springs off state highway 110. There is a boat rental, concession, grocery store and bait shop at the site.

The first commercial "trout" dock to be built on the river is located off highway 25, five miles north of Heber Springs. Here at the Rainbow Resort the fisherman will find all of the facilities needed for a day - or a week - on the river.

Floating or bank fishing are the most popular methods to catch the beautiful rainbows, but many fishermen are finding wading a fruitful method to drop their baits in some productive spots. Fishermen, immediately below the dam, are warned that as much as an eight foot rise is experienced when the generators are turned on. A klaxon horn sounds a warning from the dam to alert fishermen of the generator's operations.

A well developed campground is provided on the lake shore at Dam Site Public Use Area. This campground features scenic individual campsites, modern rest rooms, fresh water and a well equipped boat dock. This is an excellent camping area for the family who wants to try for both the "trophy" bass in the lake or the exotic rainbows in the river below.

Actually the lake fisherman may be surprised by catching a trout in the lake. 25,000 of the colorful fish have been placed in the lake in a "trial" stocking. If the fish survive the summer temperatures in the lake future plans call for a regular program of stocking the lake.

Greers Ferry Reservoir is fast becoming central Arkansas' most popular recreational area, with trout fishing only the newest of the multi-choice activities that the visitor can enjoy.

Revival Now In Progress Meeting To End July 22

The meetings opened Saturday night at the Cloud Cathedral Auditorium. Mr. Lemon (in Arab dress) recounted some of his recent experiences in the Holy Land where the recent war took place. Every one present for the first time received a Holy Land souvenir from the birthplace of Jesus.

The audience participated in the song service led by the singing evangelist Ray Nelson.

On Saturday night Evangelist Lemon showed from Daniel's prophecy seven words that spelled the fate of Communism or the fate of any human dictator from uniting the world under one flag.

The following meetings proved equally interesting in showing Why God Doesn't Destroy the Devil Now, Who Are the Angels, Four Ways By Which To Know Your Friends in Heaven and the Bible man Who Wrote His Own Life Story From Birth to Death Before He was ever born.

The next meetings will be as follows: Saturday, July 8th, "The Coming War of the Worlds," Will The Present Middle East Crisis Lead To Armage-ndon; Sunday, July 9th, "Four Mysterious Horses Riding Thru the World." Monday, July 10th, "Sign Up With God For Space Travel." Tuesday, July 11th, When Christ Captures the Devil and Blinds Him for 1000 years; Wednesday, July 12th, "Are Other Worlds Inhabited?" What and Where is Heaven?

A children's Story Hour conducted by Mrs. Lemon will begin each night before the meeting at 7 p. m. with prizes for attendance, followed by further Holy Land Travelogue Experiences and Souvenirs at 7:15 p. m.

Dodd Mtn. News

By Hub Willis

Monday morning July 3 by the old calendar I see that today is the beginning of dog days. I have heard it said that every dog has his day. I hope he can. By being very cautious last Friday night, I managed to get to the hoot nanny. It seemed like a lot of the entertainers were on "A Sit Down" strike. They were absent. Those that were in attendance gave a pretty good account of them selves. There was a good size crowd present with several out of state cars showing up.

Death, Sickness and accidents does not seem to be any respecter of persons, William Alvin "Fuzzy" Hall of Marcella passed away Wednesday June the 28 in Veterans Hospital in Little Rock. He was buried Friday the 30. Alvin was a WW I Veteran and was a member of Stone County Bar-racks 134. Alvin was well known in Stone County and his friends were numbered by his acquaintance. I have known Alvin and his family for many years. He will be missed by many people and his relatives and friends have my sincere sympathy.

Danny Bagby met a tragic and untimely death Thursday, June 29, I have known Danny since baby-hood. He was a graduate of Mtn. View High School. He was buried Saturday, July 1. Danny was em-ployed by Ark. Power & Light Company. He was a good boy and was well liked by everyone that knew him.

I am led to wonder just why a young man just coming into the prime of life with all of his life before him should be called from this earth in such a tragic manner and so many people that have out lived their age of usefulness and are only in the way should be left. It is hard to understand. Danny was only about 24 years old. However, he had more friends than many people that are living on borrowed time. My sincere sym-pathy goes to each member of his family and to all his friends in their time of sorrow.

If there is any new cases of sickness on the moun-tain. I have not heard of it. Heber Ramsey of Rich-woods was still in the Mtn. View General Hos-pital last report. Mrs. Pearl Brown, widow of the late Berl Brown of Richwoods suffered a serious accident recently. She fell and broke her hip and is now in Mem-orial Hospital in N. Little Rock. Her address is Mrs. Pearl Brown Mem-orial Hospital room 325 North Little Rock, Ark. I attended the commu-nity sale at Marcella last Thursday night. I bought myself a electric jig saw and believe me if you will shoot the electricity to it, it will jig like nobody's business. This sale is run by Ford Vickers every Thursday night. They usually have alot of used merchandise for sale as well as some that is new. At the hoot nanny last Friday night, I met L. C. Saling, a retired Navy Veteran, L. C. and his family live in Maryland. L. C. was the son of the late L. C. Saling Sr. Their home was in Richwoods. At the same time I also met Paul Dean Baldwin and wife it was the first time I had seen Paul for some time past. Paul was the oldest son of the late Elige Baldwin, a retired Navy Veteran.

Last but not least, the hoot nanny was attended by most of the different church organizations of the county.

At the funeral of Alvin Hall at Mar cella last Friday, I met Ross Aber-nathy and wife of Texas. Ross is a brother of Mrs. Alvin Hall, his wife was the daughter of Mack Fox, a former Stone County resident.

Saw Press Looney of Alco in town Saturday afternoon even tho Press is in a wheel chair, he seemed to be enjoying himself visiting with his old acquaintances and friends.

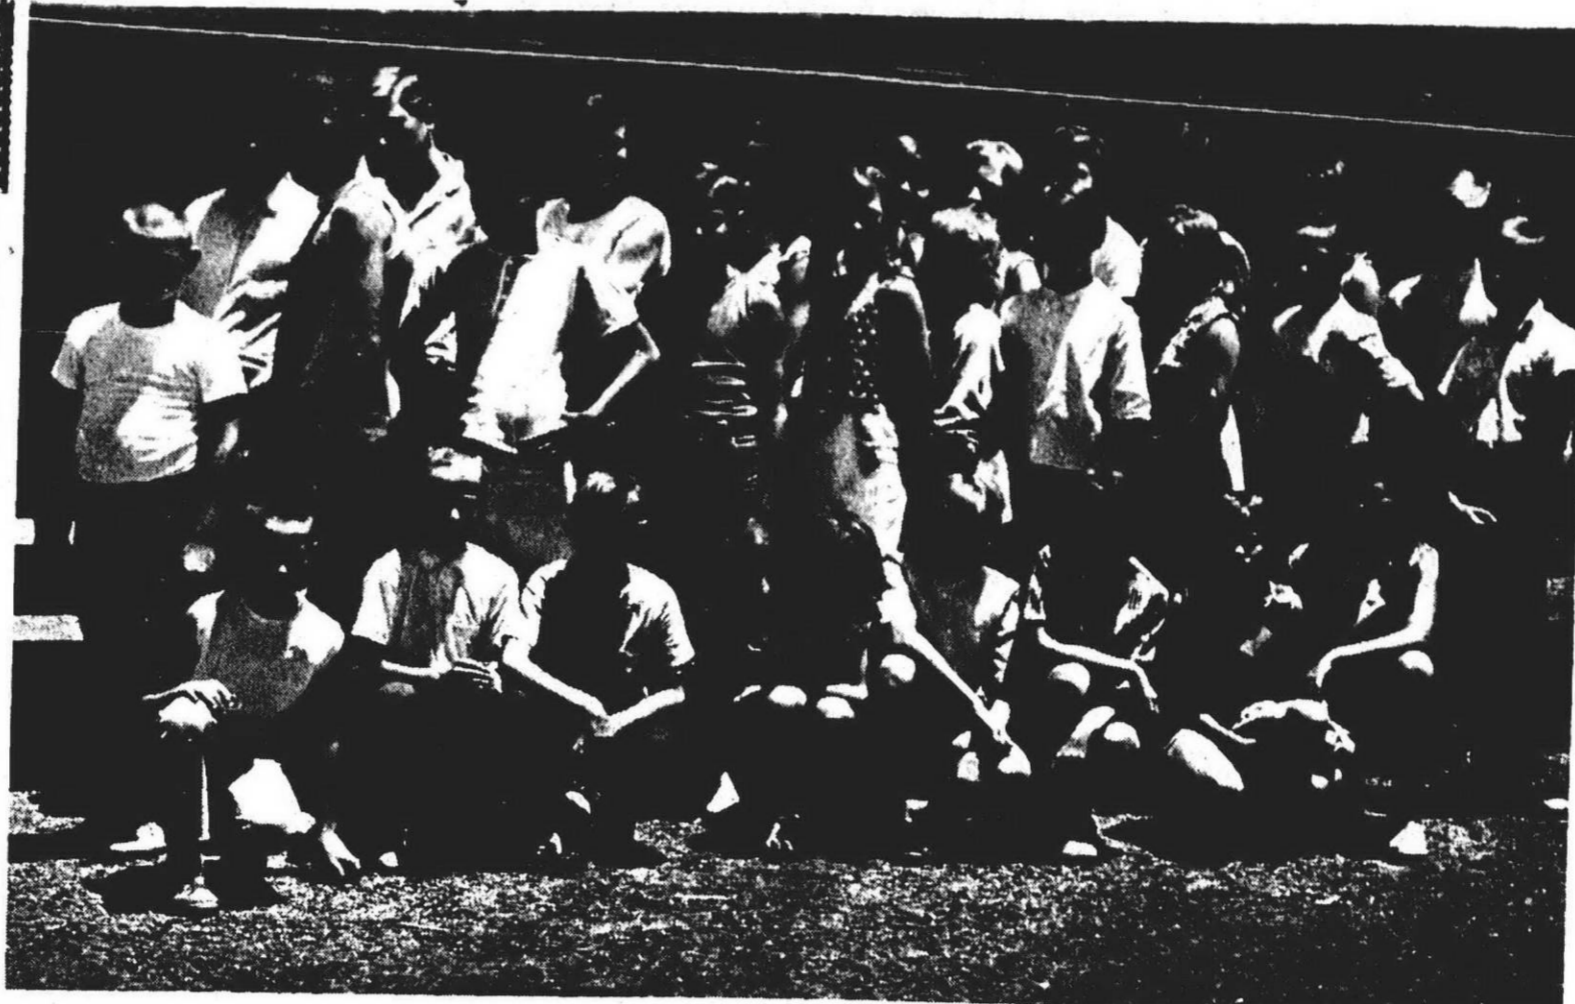

D. P. Wilson of Mtn. View was shuffling his cattle around over the weekend. Dave Nichols was able to go to town Saturday afternoon.

The Dewie Drummond family and the old Lady Willis has been trading some on garden products lately. The old Lady swap'ed the Drummonds apples, for cabbage.

Saw Edd Watt's up in town recently he was walking around as frisky as an old fox squirrel. Tomorrow is the 4th of July, Independence Day, if I am correct, Inde-pendence was declared 191 years ago today the Declaration was signed 191 years ago the second day of the next month Aug-ust.

I wonder how many will remember to put out a flag in recognition of this day. In the Thursday, June 29 issue of the Ark. Democrat there was gar-ing headlines and pictures of the noted Jayne Mans-field actress and Holly-wood celebrity, who was killed in a car wreck in Louisiana about 2:25 or 3:00 Thursday morning, June 29. There has been alot of printers ink spread concerning her death I ???. Well, lets just say I wonder ???

From the headlines in section A of Ark Democrat front page Sunday issue, it looks like Mr. Rocke-feller is still having some confusion in his choice of State Police Director. If the Governor would make more selections from folks here around home for the various state ap-pointments, I don't be-lieve there would be as much opposition to his choice for these places as there has been in the past. section of Sunday the 2nd issue of the Democrat on page 9 considerable space devoted to news of a post-al increase of first class mail. My opinion on the matter is if they would cut out the bulk rates on onjunk mail cut the size of parcel post and second class mail by 12 or 15 per cents the mail ser-vice would be greatly im-proved and the postal de-partment would pay it's way. Or least ways re-duce the deficit in postal expenses by two thirds. First class mail has al-ways paid it's way so why penalize the first class mail in order to subsidize the junk mail that is just a nuisance to most box holders and an added expense to the department and an added work load to the postal workers.
