

Woman dies in head-on crash

A Fairfield Bay woman was killed and a Prim resident injured in a two-vehicle collision Friday around 5:30 p.m.

Ashton Rae Woods, 33, of Fairfield Bay died as the result of injuries sustained in the wreck, which occurred on State Highway 263 at Rough Rock Road in southern Stone County near Prim.

Woods was driving a 2020 Kia Soul northbound on Highway 263.

A southbound 2022 Toyota Tundra driven by Paydan Biram Stewart, 24, of Prim crossed over the double yellow line and the vehicles hit head-on, according to a preliminary accident summary filed by Arkansas State Police Trooper Jonathan M. Arnold.

Stewart was med-flighted to UAMS hospital in Little Rock.

There were no passengers in either vehicle.

Challenges of childcare focus of national organization

Mountain View Police Chief George Bethell and State Senator Missy Irvin visited the Busy Bee Daycare last week to read to children and discuss the challenges faced by childcare providers and parents in Arkansas.

According to a recent report by the Council for a Strong America, statistical studies show that children in higher quality childcare are better prepared for school at age 4 than those in lower quality care, but finding these centers is a struggle for Arkansas parents, especially parents of infants and toddlers. More than one third of Arkansans live in a child care “desert” where there are at least three children for every licensed child care slot.

This lack of child care leaves a greater burden on providers like Busy Bee Day Care to fill the gap and stretch their resources to accommodate as many children as possible.

Joshua Spaulding, National Director of Fight

Crime: Invest In Kids, who organized the meeting along with Senator Irvin, said studies show that children with a good early childhood education are statistically less likely to commit a crime. Police Chief George Bethell noted families depend on quality childcare providers to keep their children safe while they work. These childcare providers are also vital in helping reduce the human and fiscal costs of future crime by helping kids get on the right path at an early age towards success later in life.

Busy Bee Program Director Rita Ward said, “I’m constantly impressed by how much my students learn and improve. When it comes time for them to go to school, I am proud to know that they are prepared. It breaks my heart to know that only one in ten children in Arkansas have access to the care that they need. I hope that more work is done to help these children get the quality care they deserve.”

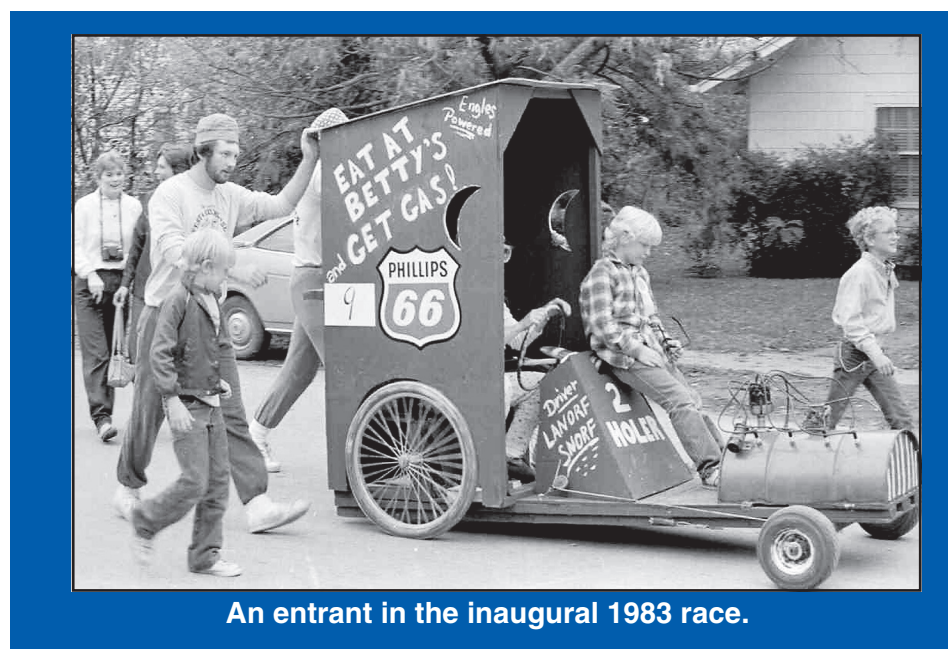

40th Bean Fest to take place Oct. 21-22

By Lori Freeze

Mountain View’s biggest fall festival marks four decades of eating beans and racing outhouses this year. Set Oct. 21-22, there is a full schedule of events produced by the Mountain View Area Chamber of Commerce.

The 40th Annual Bean Fest and Championship Outhouse Races features live music, craft vendors and activities that visitors have come to expect. What started as a light-hearted festival to fill what at the time was a vacant time on the community calendar quickly outgrew the confines of the courthouse lawn, where the first pots of beans had been simmered over wood fires. And it didn’t take long to realize the outhouses on wheels lacked the cornering ability to race around the square.

Forty years later, the bean cooking takes up an entire street on one side of the square, where more than 1,000 pounds of pintos are loaded into about 30 large iron kettles to be tended by teams competing for the top prizes and then serving to the public at noon.

A short time later, appropriately, wheeled privies built for racing – powered by two pushers and steered by a driver on the toilet seat – race a straight course on Main Street in front of the courthouse.

utive director of the Mountain View Area Chamber of Commerce, who then joked, “I can’t believe folks have been coming here 40 years for free beans and to see people race on toilet seats!”

Events begin that Friday with the popular juried craft show Artisans Market on the Square opening at 11 a.m. just north of the square, featuring hand-made goods from local and regional crafters.

There will be live music on the courthouse stage all afternoon, followed by Stringed Union at 7 p.m.

Early Saturday morning the fires are lit under numerous large cast iron pots loaded down with hundreds of pounds of pinto beans on the west side of the court square. The atmosphere is set by the costumes and displays of the cooking teams, who sometimes dress as clowns or ghouls or zany characters to compete for the title of Best Beans.

By mid-morning, the aroma from the simmering beans fills the air and visitors are drawn to the cooking area to await the noon dinner bell, when cups of beans are served.

Things step up a notch with the Parade of Outhouses around 1 p.m. The crowd gathers to cheer for their favorite “people powered potty” team of driver and pushers as they make a pass in front of the courthouse prior to the race on Main Street.

The wheeled outhouses are outfitted with a steering device for the driver (seated on the “potty”), with power provided by two pushers. Teams get into the spirit by dressing in costumes to fit the theme of their privy.

All sense of decorum is abandoned as the racers line up and run in heats to determine the fastest privy in the Ozarks. Teams compete for the revered Gold, Silver and Bronze toilet seat awards and cash prizes for both the outhouse entry and costumes.

Live music will be on stage from 3 to 5 p.m., with Interstate 30 performing at 7 p.m.

Pam Setser is coordinating afternoon music and still had slots open as of press time.

Bean Fest is held on fourth Saturday of October each year.

Quilt Show

The Stone County Extension Homemakers Council will host the annual quilt show for two days during Bean Fest.

The show will be held at the Ozark Folk Center’s administration building. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 21, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 22.

Musicians perform at the Fall Concert at Ozarka College's Amphitheater in Mountain View on October 8.

Fall concert held October 8

The Ozarka College Foundation hosted The Fall Concert at Ozarka College's Amphitheatre in Mountain View on Oct. 8. The concert featured talented musicians Brad Apple, Crystal McCool, Mary Parker, Gary Rounds, Pam Setser, and Keith Symanowitz, with special guests Turner Atwell and Lillyanne McCool.

This powerhouse group of musicians highlighted the fiddle, guitar, upright bass, mountain dulcimer, mandolin, percussion, spoons, and great vocals. The event is made possible each year by the generous donations from area sponsors.

"Friends" discuss glass recycling

It is truly exciting for Stone County that earlier this year the Quorum Court agreed to fully support construction and installation of a containment area or "bunker" for glass recycling. This is great news for the both the efficiency and cost effectiveness of handling glass as well as for the safety and health of the workers who now sort and break the glass. It will truly be a win-win for all of us in Stone County.

The new bunker for glass will tremendously expedite the efficiency of collection and processing. Because the site for glass collection will now be outside of the building and will no longer need to be sorted by color into separate bins, it will save significant handling, freeing time for the workers to attend to other responsibilities. Also, because it will no longer be necessary to break the glass, workers will not be exposed to broken glass shards and silica dust, eliminating a serious concern for their safety. When 20 tons of glass has been accumulated in the bunker, the glass will be picked up for recycling.

To put the importance of glass recycling into perspective, it is by overall weight the heaviest recyclable. From January through August almost 13 tons of glass was diverted from the landfill in Stone County and saved the County $8,700 in disposal fees at the landfill. Recycled glass is the primary ingredient in all new glass containers, and every ton of recycled glass saves more than a ton of raw materials to create new glass, including 1,300 pounds of sand, 410 pounds of soda ash and 380 pounds of limestone. Glass can also readily be repurposed for materials such as insulation and as an ingredient in asphalt for road building.

A $15,000, 25 percent matching grant was applied for and approved through White River Planning and Development, which will be applied when the county completes the project. Preparation of the site and construction of the bunker is all that await us. Congratulations to the County Quorum Court for stepping up to vastly improve glass collection in both efficiency and safety. It is now essential for the county to move forward on this project in a timely manner.

THE SHEPHERD'S HEART

Lyrics from youth have relevance

When I woke up in the wee hours of this morning (in the still very dark hours), I had a song running relentlessly through my brain. Mind you, this is not an unusual experience for me. This time was a little different, however, because of the song itself. Combined with the state the world is in these days, it struck me as odd that, seemingly out of nowhere, this particular song should find its way into my semi-sleepless night and then hang with me most of the day.

The song is one from my youth, and it tells the story of two groups of people. On one hand, you have the people who live in a kingdom high on a mountain. On the other hand are the people who live in the valley below. Local folklore from the region apparently tells of a buried treasure hidden somewhere in the mountain.

For years, decades maybe, or even centuries, the valley people have coveted the prize buried in the mountain. At one point, they send a message up the mountain demanding the mountain people relinquish the treasure. They went so far as to threaten the mountain people with death if they did not give in to their demands.

The people of the mountain sent a reply stating, simply, that they would gladly share the secrets of the mountain and any treasure buried there. This, however, was not enough for the valley folk. A command went forth for the people to mount their horses and draw their swords. And the song tells the sad story - the result of the covetous nature of the people of the valley.

The valley folks killed all the mountain people.

Now the victors stood beside the stone that covered the treasure. I'm sure they were all excited. After all, they had waited for this moment for years; had dreamed about this day; had plotted and schemed and devised a plan of attack and murder just to reach such a time as this.

The tale tells us that the valley people had won their "just reward." In the midst of their celebration, as they turned the stone and looked beneath it, they were confronted with their own folly. For beneath the stone they found no treasure. Instead, they found only the following words ... "Peace On Earth."

Today, our world is facing tumultuous times. Wars and rumors of wars. Supply chain troubles. Supposed fuel and food shortages. Governments being overthrown. Nations being ransacked by their neighbors. The list could go on and on.

As I listen to news reports and read about what is going on globally, I can't help but think about those people - the peaceful people of the mountain kingdom and the covetous folks of the valley below - and how the end of the tale might have been much better, much more pleasant, if it had not been for greed.

I believe many of the troubles we face today can be traced back to greed, and a thirst for power, and a great deal of covetousness. Nations rise against nations because they want the resources and the wealth of another. People rise against their own neighbors because they disagree or they have differing views or because they, just to put it rather simply, want to pick a fight. And our world, our communities, and our lives suffer because of it.

I believe there truly was a fabulous treasure hidden under that stone up on the mountain. It seems quite evident that we could all use a little "Peace On Earth" right about now.

Go ahead and hate your neighbor, go ahead and cheat a friend.

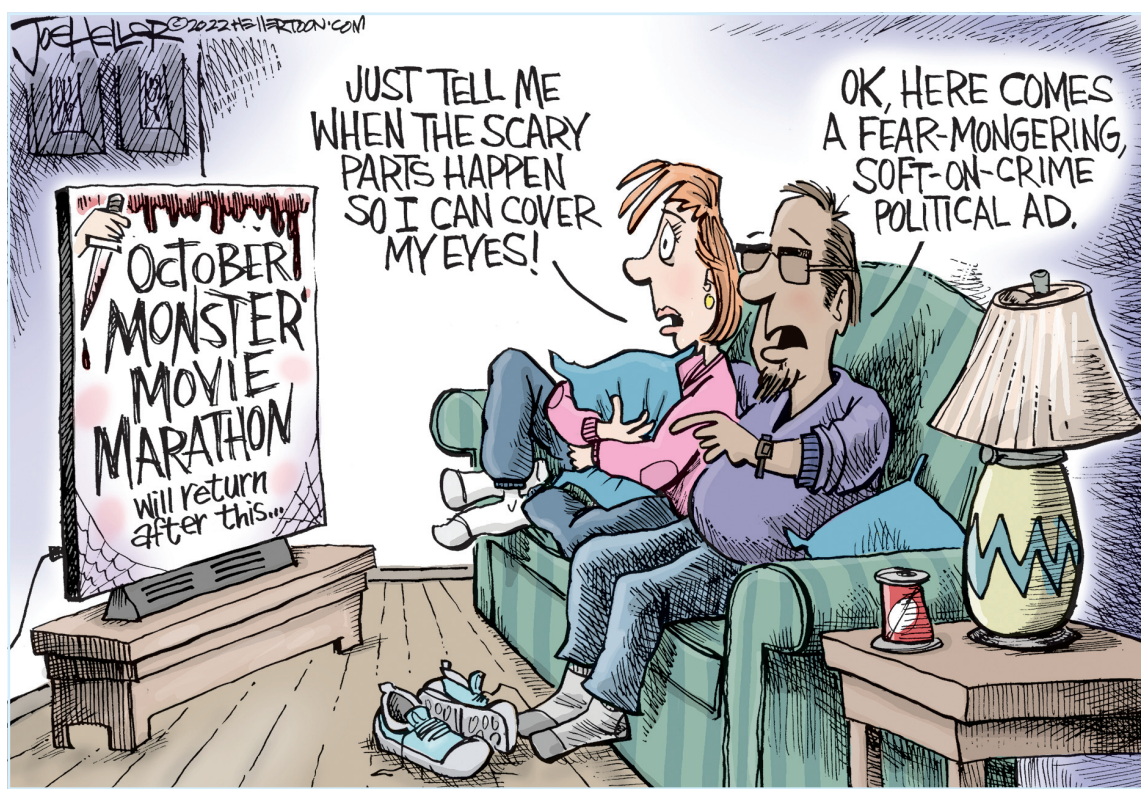

Do it in the name of heaven, you can justify it in the end.

There won't be any trumpets blowing come the judgment day,

WRITING ON THE WALL

Dogs of Dustlandia pack report

It seems that our canines have had a meeting and decided to organize. Layla is the self-appointed chair-dog of the newly formed Dogs of Dustlandia committee. Apparently, if I insist upon writing about them, they expect to have some creative control. I have chosen to comply with their demands, the first of which is to allow Layla to interview and introduce the pack since she knows them best.

This is her report. I am Layla Bear, Staffordshire mix, age 13. I am the smartest and almost the oldest. We live in Dustlandia, which is our kingdom named by our dad, Dusty. Humans love to name things after themselves for some reason. This is my second home, but I still get to see my first mama. I'm a lucky dog.

Some of our pack have crossed the rainbow bridge already, and nine of us are still here. The greatest of all of us was Riley. He raised most of us, including two cats that lurk around the windows, stalking us while we nap. He was my best friend and I miss him. Also on the other side are Roxxi (the tennis ball obsessed psycho), Cheech (the alternately abled), Ike (the couch potato), and Gus. He taught me to put tennis balls in the long grass ahead of the mower, then wait for them to shoot out so we could chase them. That was an awesome game! The rest of us are on this side of the bridge. Before our meetings we recite the pledge: "I pledge allegiance to Riley, the goodest boy ever, foster dad and hero to all of us. May we always be loyal, brave, and take care of each other as he did."

Skorchie is the oldest and says this about her life, "I don't know how old I am. I don't remember my life before Dustlandia, but I know that Mama rescued me from a hot parking lot so I gave her a bunch of puppies a few weeks later. I'm sweet and I patrol the front yard."

Ellie Mae still seems like a puppy, but she is 11. She's excessively cute, kind of skittish, and talks all the time. She is a Jack Russell mix. Mom brought her home from Walmart, which is weird because I didn't know they sold puppies there.

Angus Lugnut also came from Walmart. He is 8, a hound dog mix but people think he is scary because he's a stout brindle dog, and he has an impressive bark. He says, "I'm the home security officer." He's just a big grumbly teddy bear really, but I'm certain me and him could take down an intruder if we had to.

Then there is Floki. He's a weird one, scared of his own shadow for a long time. He is part Pyrenees, part German Shepherd. He likes to sniff rings and won't come in at night unless he has a clear path through the kitchen while dad makes a squeaky door sound. When the puppies first came to our house last year he was terrified of them, and ran away like a fraidy dog. Then one day he made friends with one of them, Nala. Now he is their alpha daddy and keeps them in line when they get too rowdy.

Speaking of Nala, she is the only sister to those dumb old boys. She can outrun all of them. Mama calls her Princess Long Legs. Her job is to bark all night, ridding the back yard of possums and all other threats, both real and imagined.

One of Nala's brothers is RJ, which means Riley Junior because he looks like Him.

All hail Riley. RJ has kind of a bad temper. He is interning with Angus to be his deputy. We all hope he outgrows that grouchy stage because he is pretty lovable the rest of the time. He's working on his big boy bark.

The biggest of the puppy pack is brother Patches. I asked him to describe himself. He snickered, "Dude, I've had a big boy bark since I was a baby. I'm the tallest, handsomest, coolest, and most laid back. Whatever you need I gotcha. I give really good snuggles 'cuz I'm a lover not a fighter."

The last of the puppies is also the smallest, an Aussie mix. He's the cocky little Joe Pesci of the pack, running around yapping like it's Dogmagedden. His only statement before charging off into the yard was "I'm Spuddy. Mommy already wrote about me so obviously I'm her favorite."

We're a great pack. We know how to make our humans feel like rock stars. We greet them like they are famous and have pockets full of doggie treats. Then we stand by nonchalantly as they pick up our special "deposits" in the back yard. We have to keep them humble.

Thank you, Layla, for that very insightful report.

Voting integrity critical

To the editor: I'm surprised more people don't voice their opinions in our local paper. Would love to get feedback on this - good, bad or indifferent. Following is an interesting website regarding voting by Arkansas Voter Integrity Initiative, Inc.: <https://arkansasvii.org/>.

Early voting for the General Election begins Oct. 24, and the news being tossed about is for people to vote in person at their local precinct on election day to avoid any votes being manipulated. Another idea is to not vote early and not vote absentee unless absolutely necessary.

We need to go back to paper ballots and hand counting which used to be how it was done.

The People's Library chosen to participate in pilot program

The People's Library at Fox was chosen as one of 12 library/artist teams in the country to participate in a pilot program for the American Library Association (ALA). The local project is a rural creative place-keeping public art project with young women aged 12-17 at Rural Special School.

The artists and library staff teams selected for ALA's Civic Imagination Stations are supported by The Estée Lauder Companies Writing Change initiative. Writing Change is a three-year global literacy initiative in partnership with Amanda Gorman, the youngest inaugural poet in U.S. history, who is an award-winning writer and Estée Lauder Global Changemaker.

Libraries will partner with local artists to implement arts programming that builds literacy and digital skills. Teams were selected from a national application process conducted in June and July 2022. The People's Library at Fox staff member Rachel Reynolds will work with artist Olivia Trimble of Northwest Arkansas.

Through March 2023, workshops and coaching will be led by Civic Imagination Stations Lead Artists Willa J. Taylor, Goodman Theatre's Walter Director of Education and Engagement, and Michael Rohd, founding artistic director of Sojourn Theatre and co-founder of the Center for Performance and Civic Practice.

Civic Imagination Station cohort teams will culminate their work with the development and implementation of short-term original arts-based projects. In addition, the Civic Imagination Stations program will model processes by which other librarian/artist partnerships can work together to create locally appropriate and meaningful civic imagination projects.

"Libraries and artists are natural partners and have much to gain and learn from each other," said ALA Executive Director Tracie D. Hall. "I envision making library collections and services more visible to our communities as one of the key outcomes of this project. This initiative also seeks to direct the ingenuity of artists, librarians, and library staff on the issue of bridging the digital literacy divide which this current pandemic has starkly exposed."

Children's Choir to perform

This Friday at 5 p.m., the Fairfield Bay Historic Preservation Commission will bring the famed Cherokee National Children's Choir to the Edgemont Shelter located on the Indian Hills Golf Course off Snead Drive in Fairfield Bay.

The concert will celebrate the new Americans with Disabilities approved trail that allows everyone access to one of Arkansas' most iconic features, also known as Indian Rock Cave. The songs the choir will sing will remind us of the earliest people who visited the ancient walls. Admission is free.

The Cherokee

National Youth Choir performs traditional Cherokee songs in the Cherokee language. The choir was formed as a way to keep youth involved in the Cherokee language and culture. Founded in 2000, the group has recorded 12 CDs and performed with such legendary artists as Foreigner, Dolly Parton, Vince Gill, Roy Clark, Kenny Rogers and the Oak Ridge Boys.

"Recently the Fairfield Bay Historic Commission was able to obtain a grant from the Department of Arkansas Heritage to fulfill a long-time goal to build the new Shelter Trail," shared Jill Bailey, president of the commission.

The Fairfield Historic Preservation Commission governs all designated historic sites in Fairfield Bay, including the Log Cabin, Log Cabin Museum, and Edgemont Shelter.

Admission is free and seating is available. Transportation to the site will be available in golf carts driven by local volunteers.

Re-Elect STACEY AVEY

FOR STONE COUNTY JUDGE
✓ HONESTY ✓ INTEGRITY ✓ ACCOUNTABILITY

MY ACCOMPLISHMENTS AS STONE COUNTY JUDGE

• INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

I have worked closely with the Stone County Industrial Development Corporation and the Quorum Court to assist and attract jobs for Stone County and was responsible for the location of Excel Boats to Mountain View. I have assisted other industrial companies with loans and grants, creating additional jobs.

• EDUCATION

I purchased property for the Ozarka College Mountain View campus, and using the County's revolving fund, was able to subsidize its sale to Ozarka. This has saved local parents and students thousands of dollars in college tuition over the years, and provided a college education for kids who, otherwise, might not have gotten one.

• ROAD MAINTENANCE

I have maintained over eleven hundred miles of unpaved roads in Stone County and built dozens of bridges with a limited county budget. I have also received several state and federal grants for road improvements.

• ACQUIRING GRANTS FOR STONE COUNTY

I have worked closely with White River Planning and Development, who write professional grant applications for state and federal grants, resulting in millions of dollars in grants to Stone County.

• OTHER PROJECTS

I have provided funding for several rural public parks in Stone County. I restored the old court house building using a federal grant. I acquired and built the new ADA handicapped accessible Stone County Court Complex. I have maintained a balanced county budget for 22 years.

• PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

I plan to continue to resurface existing paved roads, and as money allows, paving existing gravel roads. Our county must build a new jail or face financial ruin for the county. We are in the process of rebidding the project to general contractors to try to get the costs within budget. I plan to continue to attract industry to our county and support the industries we have now.

I need your help to continue as your County Judge and ask for your vote and continued support.

Please remember to VOTE!

Reduce Tax Surprises!

Consider conducting a final tax planning review to see if you can still take actions to minimize your taxes.

- Review your income. Determine how your income this year will compare to last year. This is a good initial indicator of your potential tax obligation. However, if your income is rising, more of your income could be subject to a higher tax rate and trigger other changes.

- Examine life changes. Review any key events over the past year that may have potential tax implications such as purchasing/selling a home, marriage/divorce, large medical expenses, changing jobs, or a new baby.

- Identify what tax changes may impact you. Major changes this year include the lowering of the child tax credit and the lowering of dependent care credit for working couples. This year also marks the first year in the last two with no pandemic related payments. If you think this could impact your situation it may make sense to conduct a tax planning review.

- Manage your retirement. One of the best ways to reduce your taxable income is to use tax beneficial retirement programs. So now is a good time to review your retirement account funding options. If you are not taking full advantage of the accounts available to you, there is still time to make adjustments.

- Look into credits. There are a variety of tax credits available to most taxpayers. Spend some time reviewing the most common ones to ensure your tax plan takes advantage of them.

Your goal right now is to try and avoid any unwanted surprises when you file your tax return. Let us know if we can help.

My aunt and I are researching assisted-living facilities for her, so she can get the care she needs. I found something about arbitration in a contract from one of those facilities. Didn't you say that arbitration is not allowed?

I did say that, but arbitration is only disallowed for nursing homes. Unfortunately, arbitration is still allowed for assisted living facilities, including memory-care facilities. (Arbitration clauses are also everywhere else, in contracts for telephone, banking, credit card, and on-line services.)

Arbitration means giving up the right to go to court. So, in the care setting, if staff makes a mistake in your aunt's medication, or neglects her and she develops bed sores, if her belongings are stolen, or if she is abused, she would not be able to sue the facility in front of a jury.

Instead, complaints are heard in a private, secret proceeding without a jury. An arbitrator presides instead of a judge, and arbitrators may be influenced by financial considerations favoring the facility. If the resident loses, she may have to pay the arbitrator. There is no right to appeal.

Usually, family members sign these contracts as their elders' power of attorney. They're often signing in times of crisis, after hospitalization or in a health emergency, when there is little opportunity to think carefully about what the documents say. The arbitration clauses can be buried in many pages of dense legalese. Admissions staff often don't understand arbitration, so asking them to explain is of little or no help.

You can simply cross out the arbitration paragraph. Make very clear, by writing in the margin, that arbitration is rejected. Staff may object, but they might not push the matter, especially if there are other assisted-living facilities you could go to instead.

To spare our clients from having to cope with this problem in the first place, our power of attorney documents expressly reject arbitration. A little knowledge and foresight go a long way, to avoid wrenching and costly losses down the road.

'Jackets set scoring record

By Rusty Fraser

With a score that sounds more appropriate for basketball than football, the Mountain View Yellowjackets rolled over the Cutter Morning Star Eagles 74-32 Friday night at Cutter Morning Star.

It took Mountain View only four plays to go 53 yards for their first touchdown. Quarterback Drew Shelton ran nine yards for the score and Levi Rorie tacked on the 2-point conversion.

The Eagles answered immediately with a 63-yard kick-off return for a touchdown, but failed to convert the extra point to leave the score at 8-6.

Shelton scored again on a four-yard run to cap a six-play 45-yard drive. Rorie ran in for the extra two points to make the score 16-6.

On the Yellowjackets' next possession, Shelton scored again on a 46-yard touchdown run and Rorie again ran in for the conversion to make it 24-6.

In the second quarter, Mountain View extended the lead even further on an 11-yard run by Shelton. The conversion failed and the score stood Mountain View 30, Cutter Morning Star 6.

The Eagles rallied with 7:40 left in the second quarter with a six-play 54-yard drive resulting in a touchdown. The conversion failed making the score 30-12 in favor of the visitors.

The Yellowjackets responded with a seven-play 65-yard drive and a 39-yard touchdown run by Trampas Stubbs. The conversion failed, making the score Mountain View 36, Cutter Morning Star 12.

With 1:20 left in the first half, the Eagles mounted a nine-play 61-yard drive ending with a seven-yard touchdown pass.

The halftime score: Yellowjackets 36, Eagles 18.

Rorie ran 24 yards for his team's next touchdown, and Shelton passed to Landon Goins for the additional 2 points to extend the lead to 44-18.

The Eagles refused to quit and scored on a 54-yard pass play. The conversion failed, making it Mountain View 44, Cutter Morning Star 24.

Stubbs scored on a 28-yard touchdown run. The 2-point try failed, but the score was now 50-24.

Late in the third quarter, the Eagles scored on a 15-yard touchdown pass and ran a successful conversion play to narrow the lead at 50 to 32, but Mountain View scored on a 53-yard touchdown run by Stubbs. The conversion was good on a Rorie run for a 58-32 lead as time ran out in the third quarter.

Laddie Sims made a 40-yard run for a touchdown with 8:52 left in the game and Drew Isbell tacked on the 2 points for a 66-32 Mountain View lead.

A 46-yard touchdown run by Isbell and a 2-point conversion by Rush Sullivan made the final score 74 to 32.

Mountain View amassed 585 total yards compared to 306 yards for Cutter Morning Star.

Drew Shelton had 12 carries for 117 yards and four rushing touchdowns.

Levi Rorie had 17 carries for 142 yards and one rushing touchdown.

Trampas Stubbs rushed for 165 yards and three rushing touchdowns.

Landon Goins had two carries for 32 yards and one pass reception for two yards.

Drew Isbell had three carries for 63 yards and one rushing touchdown.

Laddie Sims had one carry for 40 yards and one touchdown.

Kenner Gray had two carries for 10 yards and one pass reception for four yards.

Jack Newton had one pass reception for 13 yards.

On defense, Stubbs made nine tackles and had one pass interception.

Shelton made five tackles.

Goins made 12 tackles and one fumble recovery.

Jace Tinkle made six tackles.

Jesy Decker made seven tackles and one pass interception.

Rush Sullivan made seven tackles and one quarterback sack.

The Yellowjackets extended their winning streak to six games, and improved to 5-0 in conference play.

Mountain View will play at home for the two final regular season games: Fountain Lake this Friday night and Cedar Ridge Oct. 21.

Lyon College to host ScotsFest this weekend

Lyon College will kick off the celebration of its 150th anniversary with ScotsFest, the 42nd Arkansas Scottish Festival and Lyon College Homecoming, Friday through Sunday, Oct. 14-16, on the Batesville campus, 2300 Highland Rd.

General admission to the festival is free, though some individual and alumni events require a registration fee.

The Arkansas Scottish Festival began in 1979 as a small fair on the campus' intramural field as a way to pay homage to the Scottish heritage of the college's Presbyterian founders. It has grown into one of the premier festivals in Arkansas and one of the most prominent festivals in the United States for honoring Scottish heritage and traditions. This is the second year the festival will be combined with the Lyon College Homecoming.

Presented by Lyon College and lead partners White River Health and Experience Independence, ScotsFest will feature a variety of activities in celebration of Lyon College's sesquicentennial, including special musical performances, Highland dancing, pipe band and sheepdog demonstrations, a dog show, children's activities, a bonniest knees contest, and a feast and ceilidh.

"While every ScotsFest is a great festival, this year represents something special in the life of our community: an opportunity to come together, alumni and friends alike, from every corner of Arkansas and from across the country to celebrate 150 years of history and tradition at Lyon College," said Dr. David Hutchison, Vice President for Advancement.

"The whole weekend is really a huge kickoff for 10 straight days of special events and activities that showcase our unique story as a pioneer college in the foothills of the Ozarks, our journey to a national liberal arts college today, and looking forward to what great things are in store not just for Lyon College, but for Arkansas."

Cindy Barber, Executive Director of Alumni Engagement, said, "There's always an air of excitement on campus during ScotsFest, and we love seeing so many alumni and friends come home to Lyon. This year, you do not want to miss it. We look forward to celebrating our Scottish heritage, homecoming, the sesquicentennial, and Lyon's exciting future together with you."

John 3:16 Ministries provides support in helping to set up and take down the festival.

ScotsFest begins Friday, Oct. 14, with open classes, a president's reception, alumni awards celebration and social, and the Kilted Mile race/walk at 12th and Main Street in downtown Batesville at 6 p.m. Registration for the race/walk is available at arscottishfest.com.

Festival gates open at 8 a.m. Saturday with a nod to history and reenactments by MacLachlan's Jacobite Highlanders and Colonel Munro's 37th Regiment of Foot, followed by a Highland athletics competition, a British car show, Li'l Highlanders Fun Zone, Highland dancing and pipe band exhibitions, men's basketball, softball and baseball alumni games, Black Student Association reunion and homecoming tailgate.

"This year we will have several pipe bands from around the region and great opening ceremonies with all the favorites: Amazing Grace, Scotland the Brave and others," said Jimmy Bell, Director of the Scottish Heritage Program. "Come see or enter yourself in the heavy athletics. You'll have an opportunity to throw stones and weights for distance or height and throw some telephone poles."

There will be a band and clan march-past followed by opening ceremonies at 12 p.m. with a mass pipe band concert in the Couch Garden. Afternoon activities include a dog show, homecoming pep rally and homecoming football game. A feast and ceilidh begin at 6 p.m., followed by a young alumni social.

"There is nothing more exciting than the colorful parade of clans, unless it's the soul-stirring soundtrack provided by the pipe bands as the clans march past," said Kenton Adler, Director of Advancement for Scottish Heritage. "And when the massed bands play together, it really can't be beat."

Sunday's lineup includes a Kirkin' o' the Tartan worship service at 10 a.m. in the entertainment tent with tea and scones provided, as well as Highland dancing and a bonniest knees contest.

The festival closes at 4 p.m. The full schedule of events is posted at arscottishfest.com.

Lyon College is a private, liberal arts institution founded in 1872.

Unscramble these twelve letter strings to form each into an ordinary word (ex. HAGNEC becomes CHANGE). Prepare to use only ONE word from any marked (♥) letter string as each unscrambles into more than one word (ex. ♥RATHE becomes HATER or EARTH or HEART). Fit each string's word either across or down to knot all twelve strings together.
