'Laurel Canyon'- How it became the epicenter of musical creativity

BY GEORGE DICKIE

They may have come for the cheap living but they stayed for the creative musical atmosphere of "Laurel Canyon."

Airing consecutive Sundays beginning May 31, the so-named two-part EPIX documentary uses archival interviews and footage to tell how the rural enclave in the Hollywood Hills outside Los Angeles became home to a laundry list of some of the most influential and famous names of 1960s and '70s music, among them the Eagles, the Doors, The Mamas & the Papas, Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young, Joni Mitchell, the Byrds, Bonnie Raitt, The Monkees, Little Feat and Jackson Browne.

It's easy to understand the attraction. In addition to being an inexpensive to live (at the time), the place had a rural vibe and lots of bucolic beauty that fed their imaginations yet was a quick drive to the clubs on the Sunset Strip, where many of them congregated. As more musicians moved in, more wanted to join the party.

"Artists from the New York scene were just coming out west to a change of pace," explains Alison Ellwood ("Story of the Eagles"), the film's director, "and then they all started coming and they all started gathering there. And they would say, 'Where are you living?' and next thing you know, people were just – you know, I think David Crosby says it first: 'There were just a few of us. Next thing you knew, there were like 30 or 50 and it became a real scene then.' ... Artists were around and supporting one another so it was a very conducive environment for creativity."

The stories in the documentary are pure meat and potatoes for any music aficionado. Yes, there are the parties, the drugs, the hook-ups and the break-ups but there are also tales of fateful events, such as how the Doors' success eclipsed the band Love's standing at Elektra Records, what inspired John and Michelle Phillips to write "California Dreamin'" and how future Eagles Glenn Frey and Don Henley first met at the legendary club the Troubadour.

"Obviously, the Troubadour was a huge Grand Central place for all of these artists," Ellwood says. "You know, Glenn would hang out there just to meet people and learn about the business. ... And he was not just a great musician and singer/songwriter but he was a very savvy business guy, which a lot of them were not at that time. ... But you know, Glenn had a vision and a dream and set about making it happen and he did. He hooked up with Don and Don signed up and off they went and really took it to the next level."

And then there are stories of the coupling and uncoupling that went on, including John and Michelle Phillips, Graham Nash and Joni Mitchell and even Steve Martin and Linda Ronstadt, one of Ellwood's favorite discoveries while making the film.

"It's just wonderful how interlaced everybody was," she says, "and how they shared and grew from one another and took from one another and expanded. And it was a very nurturing environment."

The luckiest signs this week: Sagittarius, Capricorn and Aquarius

ARIES

Your emotions will run high this week. A move or change in employment will allow you to realize a long-standing dream.

TAURUS

Your love life will occupy your thoughts. Certain pursuits will be scary and may symbolize a commitment you're not ready for. Some reflection is needed.

GEMINI

New eating habits will work out well for you. You'll take the first steps toward starting a business from home, but it'll take some time to become profitable.

CANCER

Self-esteem is an important part of well-being. You'll become aware of your value and your loved ones will show more appreciation for you.

LEO

All of your attention will be on your family this week. If you have a big move coming up, you'll realize time is running out and your stress level will rise.

VIRGO

You won't keep your opinions to yourself. If there's something on your mind, talk to someone about it so they can guide you toward a solution.

LIBRA

You'll find a solution to your financial or emotional concerns thanks to sudden inspiration or a dream. The right choice will be clear and things will fall into place.

SCORPIO

Standing still isn't a solution. It's time to take action and make things better. You'll successfully put aside your fears and worries so you can move in the right direction.

SAGITTARIUS

You'll uncover a new talent that allows you to demonstrate your creativity. You'll volunteer for a cause that's close to your heart.

CAPRICORN

It may be time to clean up your social circle. As the saying goes, when you lend money to a friend, you lose the money and the friend. Use this proverb to keep your friendships intact.

AQUARIUS

You'll be given new and challenging responsibilities at work and in your personal life. If you're looking for a job, you'll find a position with excellent working conditions and great potential.

PISCES

Vacation plans will take shape for the summer. Don't disregard the value of preparation, even if a deadline is looming. Any opportunity to learn will be extremely beneficial.

"Jerry Seinfeld: 23 Hours to Kill"
The Brooklyn-born comic and Emmy-nominated star of "Seinfeld" gives his take on talking vs. texting and the magic of Pop Tarts, and weighs the proximity of "sucks" and "great" in a stand-up performance recorded earlier this year during a three-month engagement at the Beacon Theatre in New York City. (ORIGINAL)

"Workin' Moms"
Anne (Dani Kind), Frankie (Juno Rinaldi), Jenny (Jessalyn Wanlim) and Kate (series creator Catherine Reitman) are back for the fourth round of this well-received Canadian comedy about the trials and tribulations of early parenthood, which finds the ladies struggling to maintain their sanity after returning from maternity leave to old routines — or perhaps worse. Tenna Keating, Dennis Andres and Katherine Barrell are other cast holdovers. (ORIGINAL)

"Ben Platt Live From Radio City Music Hall"
The Los Angeles-born and -raised singer, songwriter and actor performs selections including "Bad Habit," "Temporary Love" and "Hurt Me Once" in this concert performance recorded at New York's Radio City Musical Hall on the final stop of his "Sing to Me Instead" tour in September 2019. (ORIGINAL)

"History 101"
From England comes this docuseries that uses infographics and archival footage to give miniature history lessons on scientific breakthroughs, social movements and world-changing discoveries. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: The Lodge"
Riley Keough ("The Girlfriend Experience") stars as a woman who tries to build a better relationship with her fiancé's wary children by spending the weekend with them at a remote cabin. But when he has to leave them in her care, some strange and frightening events take place in this 2019 horror movie. Lia McHugh and Richard Armitage are also in the cast.

"The Happy Days of Garry Marshall"
Writer-producer-director Garry Marshall, who died at age 81 in 2016, is fondly remembered by family and friends in this two-hour ABC special, which celebrates Marshall's remarkable career as the creator behind such pop-culture TV hits as "Happy Days," "Laverne & Shirley" and "Mork & Mindy," as well as such movie blockbusters as "Pretty Woman" and "The Princess Diaries."

"The Story of Soaps"
Now only four network daytime dramas are on TV — "General Hospital", "The Bold and the Beautiful" and "The Young and the Restless" and "Days of Our Lives" — but this once-thriving genre broke new ground in serialized storytelling that propels modern "bingeworthy" dramas. That proud soap legacy is celebrated in this two-hour special, which features archival commentary from such soap pioneers as Agnes Nixon and newer interviews with actors including Jon Hamm, Susan Lucci, Alec Baldwin, Carol Burnett and Bryan Cranston, among others.

"Movie: We Are Freestyle Love Supreme"
Long before attaining international acclaim in "Hamilton," Lin-Manuel Miranda was in a hip-hop improvisational group called Freestyle Love Supreme along with director Thomas Kail and performers Christopher Jackson and Anthony Veneziale. For this documentary, filmmaker Andrew Fried began chronicling their journey in 2005 and then their reunion

"Alias"
Amazon streams all five seasons of this 2001-06 ABC action series, which was created by J.J. Abrams and stars Jennifer Garner as Sydney Bristow, recruited out of college to be an international spy before becoming a double agent for the CIA. The strong cast also includes Victor Garber, Ron Rifkin, Michael Vartan, Bradley Cooper and Carl Lumbly.

"Poldark"
Originally airing on BBC One in the U.K. before being broadcast in the states on PBS, this 2015-19 British historical drama stars Aidan Turner in the lead role of Captain Ross Vennor Poldark, who returns home to England in 1783 from three years fighting in the American Revolution to find his father has died, his estate is in ruins and his sweetheart is engaged to his cousin. Eleanor Tomlinson, Jack Farthing and Beatie Edney also star in this series, all five seasons of which are available here.

"Love Life"
Love Life, the first full-length scripted series to star Oscar nominee Anna Kendrick, is about the journey from first love to last love, and how the people we're with along the way make us into who we are when we finally end up with someone forever. The series will follow a different protagonist's quest for love each season, with each half-hour episode telling the story of one of their relationships.

"The Lucy Show"
Five years removed from the trailblazing success of "I Love Lucy," Lucille Ball returned to CBS in this 1962-68 sitcom in which she starred as a woman left a substantial trust fund by her late husband and the bank manager (Gale Gordon) annoyed by the harebrained schemes for which she used the money. The series also reunited Ball with "I Love Lucy" co-star Vivian Vance.

"Bonanza"
The inaugural season of this iconic 1959-73 NBC Western series about the wealthy Cartwright family of Virginia City, Nev., comes to the streaming service with Lorne Greene, Michael Landon, Dan Blocker, Pernell Roberts Victor Sen Yung heading the large (and changing) cast.

"The Not Too Late Show with Elmo"
Elmo is the host of his very own talk show and he's going to bring you some fun with an all-new, celeb-studded talk show series. This brand-new series brings familiar Sesame Street friends like Elmo, Cookie Monster, celebrity guests, and laughs the whole family can enjoy. Elmo will interview guests such as fellow late-night hosts Jimmy Fallon and John Oliver, comedian John Mulaney, best-selling author Kwame Alexander, actress Blake Lively, and award-winning musical acts Lil Nas X and The Jonas Brothers.

Rachel McAdams' Top 10 Movies

BY JAY BOBBIN

"Spotlight" (2015): In this Oscar-winning drama, McAdams is part of the superb ensemble playing a Boston investigative-reporting team pursuing a scandal involving the Catholic Church.

"The Vow" (2012): McAdams' affecting portrayal of a woman who loses her memory in a car accident is a huge plus for this familiar-feeling tale.

"Midnight in Paris" (2011): Woody Allen's comedy-fantasy features fine work by McAdams as a fiancée who doesn't share her beloved's (Owen Wilson) very romantic view of the City of Light.

"Morning Glory" (2010): A totally winning, often amusing McAdams plays a morning-show producer challenged to make her new anchor team (Harrison Ford, Diane Keaton) work together.

"State of Play" (2009): Reporters (McAdams, Russell Crowe) of very different backgrounds probe a politician's (Ben Affleck) possible link to an aide's death.

"The Lucky Ones" (2008): Not as widely seen as some of her other films, this excellent drama teams McAdams with Tim Robbins and Michael Pena as soldiers who share a cross-country odyssey after returning from battle.

"Red Eye" (2005): Director Wes Craven's intense thriller casts McAdams as a traveler held captive aboard a flight by a clever would-be killer (Cillian Murphy).

"Wedding Crashers" (2005): A highly engaging McAdams makes it understandable that Owen Wilson's crasher character would try to steal her away from her longtime beau (Bradley Cooper).

"The Notebook" (2004): Stardom was cemented relatively early for McAdams with her flashback-bound portrayal of half of a forbidden romance in this popular Nicholas Sparks story.

"Mean Girls" (2004): For some fans, McAdams always will be Regina, leader of the mean Plastics who rule the school ... and eventually earn the potent wrath of one target (Lindsay Lohan).

'Morning Glory' amusingly skewers world of morning television shows

BY JAY BOBBIN

Its edges may not be as sharp as those of "Network" or "Broadcast News," but "Morning Glory" puts television to the test in its own modest way.

Currently playing on Hulu, the 2010 comedy doubles as both a romance and a satire, hinging on the personal and professional lives – which eventually merge – of Becky Fuller (played by an extremely engaging Rachel McAdams), an ambitious TV-news producer downsized out of her job at a New Jersey morning show. Through sheer force of personality, she convinces a lowly network's news honcho (Jeff Goldblum) to hire her as the latest of many executive producers of "Daybreak," a program that's an industry joke. Literally.

Taking charge by dismissing the skeezy male co-anchor (Ty Burrell), Becky finds herself in immediate need of someone to partner with attitude-dripping co-host Colleen Peck (a droll Diane Keaton). Enter Mike Pomeroy, a legendary newsman sitting out the rest of his lucrative contract, which will be voided if he turns down a job the network offers him ... and as the pompous, humorless Pomeroy, Harrison Ford is pure comedic gold. His low growl is good for a laugh with virtually every line.

Becky's love life also picks up thanks to newsmagazine producer Adam Bennett (a charming Patrick Wilson), but his real role here is to be a sounding board for Becky. His own encounters with Pomeroy make him declare the new morning anchorman "the third worst person in the world," and Becky soon finds truth in that as Pomeroy stubbornly refuses to do most of what she asks of him.

Director Roger Michell has experience in romantic comedies ("Notting Hill"), but the main creative engine behind "Morning Glory" is screenwriter Aline Brosh McKenna, who also serviced other heroines wonderfully both before ("The Devil Wears Prada") and after ("Crazy Ex-Girlfriend") this film. She makes Becky someone truly to root for, but that's also to the immense credit of star McAdams.

The actress has proven herself in both comedy and drama many times, but "Morning Glory" arguably is her best showcase to date. Hitting both sad and humorous notes with total skill here (and tossing off many "inside baseball" references to TV news quite smoothly), she carries the picture, part of her run of journalism-related projects that also have encompassed "State of Play" and the Oscar-winning "Spotlight."

"Morning Glory" also boasts a solid cast of supporting players as "Daybreak" personnel. The standouts: John Pankow ("Mad About You") as the cheerfully knowing associate producer, and Matt Malloy as the hapless weatherman, who's sent to give forecasts while skydiving (he's not good at it) and riding a fearsome roller coaster (he's not good at that, either).

Quite underrated, "Morning Glory" is terrific fun – and cheers to the cable networks and streaming services that continue to give it its due.

Betty Broderick exacts marital fury in second “Dirty John” series

BY JAY BOBBIN

As the adage says, hell hath no fury like a woman scorned ... and Betty Broderick is a textbook example.

Played by Meredith Baxter in two early-1990s TV-movies, Broderick famously wrought vengeance on her San Diego lawyer husband Dan after he left her for another woman. What initially seemed like immature vandalism eventually became something much more lethal, and the true story gets a new and very detailed dramatization over the eight episodes of the second season of “Dirty John,” which USA Network debuts Tuesday, June 2 (after the first, podcast-inspired “Dirty John” series ran on Bravo).

Amanda Peet (“Brockmire,” “Togetherness”) and Tiera Skovbye (“Riverdale”) portray Betty at different ages, as she supports Dan (Christian Slater, returning to USA after his “Mr.

Robot” run) through his medical and legal schooling and the starts of their family and his career. The union disintegrates rather rapidly once he meets Linda Kolkena (Rachel Keller, “Legion”), prompting Betty to strike back – a situation that ultimately results in a double homicide.

Playing Broderick as alternately high-spirited and desperate, and sometimes both at once, Peet says that the project gives “a very complex psychological portrait that allows for the idea that there probably was mental illness, but also that there were incidents in the marriage and the legal system made it very difficult for her to remain healthy.”

The Betty Broderick-themed season of “Dirty John” boasts an all-female team of directors, including its writer and executive producer, Alexandra Cunningham. Peet admits that she didn’t know much about Broderick before reading Cunningham’s teleplay, “and I think that was probably a good thing. It seemed to me to just be an intimate portrait of someone who, after so many years of suffering, sort of snapped.”

Depicting that required Peet and Slater to be very much in sync, with the series’ timeline going back and forth continually. “I just can’t rave about him enough,” she says. “Besides being a brilliant actor, he’s a class act as a human being, really fun and so considerate. I can’t believe he’s been a star for this long and is so thoughtful and kind ... no offense to anyone else!”

After writing two stage plays, Peet currently is working with her writer-producer husband David Benioff (“Game of Thrones”) on Netflix’s forthcoming, Sandra Oh-starring university comedydrama “The Chair.” Peet co-created it and is doing the bulk of its scripts, but she’s still grateful to land acting parts including Betty Broderick (who has been denied parole three times, and is next eligible in 2032). “To have a role like this at age 48 is a gift and an honor,” Peet reflects. “And the fact that Alexandra picked me for it still blows my mind.”

View from the Couch BY JAY BOBBIN

“WATCHMEN: AN HBO LIMITED SERIES”

After the success of the graphic novel and a live-action movie, the saga of vigilantes operating in an alternate world got weekly-show treatment in this well-received version executive-produced by Damon Lindelof (“Lost,” “The Leftovers”). It’s actually a sequel to the comic book, moved ahead to the present day with Oscar winner Regina King leading the notable acting ensemble as a Tulsa police detective trying to balance her obligation to protect the city with her home life as a married mother of three. If that sounds like a fairly standard setup, the result is anything but that, thanks to the premise – which strongly factors in a racial undercurrent – and the other characters who populate the series. Also in the cast are Jeremy Irons, Don Johnson, Jean Smart, Louis Gossett Jr., Frances Fisher and James Wolk. Though this was planned as a one-shot limited series, the possibility of a continuation remains, dependent on Lindelof’s willingness to stay with the project. »» (Not rated: AS, P, V)

“Jaws: 45th Anniversary Limited Edition”

Hard as it might be to believe, it was almost 50 years ago that a Great White shark first attacked fun-seekers at Amity Island ... and put Steven Spielberg on the map as a major filmmaker. This latest home-video release of the suspense classic marks the picture’s debut in the 4K Ultra

HD format, as it adapts Peter Benchley’s novel that sends a sheriff (played by Roy Scheider), a shark expert (Richard Dreyfuss) and a crusty shark hunter (Robert Shaw) out to sea on the trail of the very hungry creature. John Williams’ Oscar-winning score is enduringly famous for its simple but hugely effective combination of notes warning that the enemy is coming. Co-stars include

Lorraine Gary (then the wife of the head of Universal Pictures) as Scheider’s spouse, and Murray Hamilton as arguably the most ineffective and oddly attired mayor in movie history. The many extras include several “making-of” documentaries carried over from earlier video editions of the film. »» (PG: AS, N, P, V)

“Star Trek: Short Treks”

The title is quite self-explanatory in the case of this collection of entries in the short-subject series that was launched by CBS All Access to coincide with – and expand upon – “Star Trek: Discovery.” Cast members including Anson Mount, Ethan Peck, Rebecca Romijn, Doug Jones and Rainn Wilson appear in their roles from the main show (for Peck, that part being the iconic Spock), diving deeper into their respective characters than “Discovery” sometimes has been able to. Each of the standalone stories has a correlating and new “making-of” documentary here, featuring such talents as executive producers Alex Kurtzman and Jenny Lumet, writer Michael Chabon and composer Michael Giacchino. »» (Not rated: AS) (Also on Blu-ray)

“Harley Quinn: The Complete First Season”

The title DC Comics character has had a big workout lately, thanks to two movies in which she was played by Margot Robbie, and also to this decidedly adult animated series made for the DC Universe streaming service. In what was her first major project after “The Big Bang Theory,” Kaley Cuoco supplies the voice for the dangerously independent Harley, who assembles her own crew of questionable purpose after she separates from The Joker. Diedrich Bader (“American Housewife”) and James Wolk (“Zoo”) are heard as Batman and Superman respectively, and additional members of the impressive voice cast include Lake Bell (“Bless This Mess”), Jason Alexander, Tony Hale (“Veep”), Alan Tudyk, J.B. Smoove, Giancarlo Esposito, Rhea Perlman, Sean Giambrone (“The Goldbergs”), Sanaa Lathan, Wanda Sykes and Alfred Molina. »» (Not rated: AS, P, V)

“Expedition With Steve Backshall: Season One”

Dangerous treks are all in a day’s work for adventurer Backshall, who’s more or less England’s answer to Bear Grylls, in this PBS series that comes to home video just after finishing its broadcast run. Backshall manages to make his way out of some harrowing situations ... and very particularly in the case of a subterranean cavern rapidly filling with water, which makes for some extremely tense and intense footage. The aim is to explore areas of the world that remained untouched by people until Backshall and his associates ventured there, with the Himalayas and the arctic among the destinations. The indigenous people and wildlife of the showcased regions are featured. »» (Not rated)

“Urban Cowboy”

Marking its 40th anniversary with its debut on Blu-ray, director and co-screenwriter James Bridges’ drama was one of the films that cemented John Travolta’s movie stardom. The actor plays new-to-Houston oil-refinery worker Bud, whose relationship with the willful Sissy (Debra Winger) has more than its share of ups and downs. Madolyn Smith and Scott Glenn portray others the two respectively become involved with. Among the extras here are a retrospective documentary and an interview with country-music veteran Mickey Gilley, whose famed honky-tonk club – with its mechanical bull – basically is a character in the story. The score was an enormous success of its own, doing much for the country genre in general and spawning hits for Gilley, Johnny Lee, Anne Murray, Kenny Rogers and Boz Scaggs. Notably, this was the first movie choreographed by Patsy Swayze, Patrick’s mother. »» (PG: AS, N, P, V)
