Bryce Dallas Howard salutes 'Dads' - They're not who you think they are

BY GEORGE DICKIE

Ask 100 different men what it means to be a father and you'll likely get 100 different answers. Which is something Bryce Dallas Howard found when making a documentary that begins streaming in honor of Father's Day on Apple TV+.

In "Dads," an 80-minute film that premieres Friday, June 19, the actress and filmmaker talks to regular and celebrity fathers such as Jimmy Kimmel, Conan O'Brien, Judd Apatow, Will Smith, Neil Patrick Harris and her own dad, actor/filmmaker Ron Howard, about their experiences with childrearing and explores how the role has changed over the years and the juggling act that it continues to be.

The stories are funny, poignant and revealing. Some, like Kimmel, are visibly moved when they talk about their own fathers while others, like Smith, recall feeling absolutely dumbstruck when baby arrived home, wondering how his brand new TV could come with a thick owner's manual but his newborn child could have none.

The tone is humorous and a lot of it comes from the comics, who Howard felt were the ideal people to describe the paternal condition.

"Stand-up comedians, they are prepared," she says with a laugh. "They're looking at their lives through that lens. And so I just thought of a bunch of guys who are dads who I hoped, aspired to interview and started the process of reaching out to folks and just saying, 'Hey, I'm making a documentary about dads. Would you be willing to come in for an interview?'"

The documentary also comes with a good bit of Howard family history, including the events surrounding the birth of Bryce in 1981, filmed by parents Ron and Cheryl. There are also stories about her grandfather Rance Howard, who died in 2017, and how he played a critical role in how young Ron's character of Opie would be portrayed on "The Andy Griffith Show."

"The interview with my grandfather was something that I did in 2013," she says, "... and that was kind of an afterthought as well where it was like, 'Oh my gosh, I interviewed Grandad. I wonder if there's anything in there.' And so I went back and rewatched his tapes and found that story."

What comes through is there is no one definition of a father or the paternal role. The dad as the traditional breadwinner while Mom stays home with the kids is no longer the rule, replaced by fathers who are home and taking a more active role in child-rearing. Toward that end, Howard felt that those men were unfairly being maligned as layabouts who don't pull their weight and thus wanted to remove that stigma and get them a little credit.

"All this stuff that is just absolutely bananas," she says, "and totally undermines family, undermines men, undermines women and most of all the children who are growing up. So that really got me and so yeah, I made a documentary about that."

The luckiest signs this week:
Gemini, Cancer and Leo

- ♈ ARIES
You'll need to reassess your budget in detail. A group trip that you helped plan will guarantee new discoveries and adventure.
- ♉ TAURUS
You'll react impulsively to a particular situation. Remember that it's important to consult the people around you. Think carefully before you make a decision to avoid financial troubles.
- ♊ GEMINI
If you're faced with a lot of unanswered questions about your life, you'll have some kind of revelation this week. A dream may reveal the solution to a professional problem.
- ♋ CANCER
This week will be stressful, and you'll need time to rest and recuperate. You'll also have some ideas about changes you can make to your home decor or elsewhere around the house.
- ♌ LEO
Despite some reservations, you'll be tasked with organizing a social event. Whether it's at your home or elsewhere, many of the people you love will come together.
- ♍ VIRGO
Every big project begins with a dream, and you'll be inspired to put your ideas into action. You're seeking a more interesting personal and professional future.
- ♎ LIBRA
You'll feel overwhelmed with emotion this week, but the experience will inspire profound change. This may prompt you to embark on a revelatory pilgrimage.
- ♏ SCORPIO
You and your partner must learn to share your goals and move forward together. At times, it's necessary to take a step back so you can see the path ahead more clearly.
- ♐ SAGITTARIUS
You'll be involved in important negotiations at work that'll cause a lot of stress. Even if you're not single, someone may declare their love and leave you confused.
- ♑ CAPRICORN
A bruised ego may be what you need to strengthen your self-confidence. It's not always easy to find yourself in the spotlight.
- ♒ AQUARIUS
One of your children will impress you with an accomplishment. You'll be filled with pride, even if it's a small achievement. Your outspoken nature will lead you to great success at work.
- ♓ PISCES
You may decide to sell the family home, especially if your kids moved out a while ago. The time has come to live a more passionate life.

"Movie: Father Soldier Son"

From filmmakers Leslye Davis ("The Power of Gold") and Catrin Einhorn ("A Year at War") comes this 2020 documentary that follows the journey of Sgt. First Class Brian Eisch, who is critically wounded in Afghanistan, thus setting him and his sons on a path of love, loss, redemption and legacy. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: Feel the Beat"

From director Elissa Down ("The Honor List," "The Black Balloon") comes this 2020 drama about a young woman who returns to her hometown after failing to find success on Broadway and gets recruited to train a group of young misfits for a big dance competition. Enrico Colantoni, Sofia Carson, Dennis Andres and Marissa Jaret Winokur head the cast. (ORIGINAL)

"Movie: The Dustwalker"

An isolated Australian town falls prey to an insidious bug from outer space that gradually transforms its residents into mindless killing machines in this 2019 sci-fi tale from downunder and writer/director Sandra Sciberras ("Surviving Georgia"). Jolene Anderson ("Prey"), Stef Dawson ("The Hunger Games: Catching Fire") and Cassandra Magrath ("Wolf Creek") head the cast.

"Movie: Crawl"

Trying to save her father during a Category 5 hurricane, a young woman (Kaya Scodelario, "Maze Runner: The Death Cure") finds herself trapped in a flooding house and having to fight off alligators in this 2019 horror movie from director Alexandre Aja ("The Hills Have Eyes"). Barry Pepper, Morfydd Clark, Ross Anderson and Jose Palma also star.

"Movie: Wasp Network"

Ana de Armas, Penélope Cruz, Wagner Moura and Gael Garcia Bernal head the solid cast of this thriller movie from director Olivier Assayas ("Clouds of Sils Maria") about five Cuban political prisoners who have been jailed by the United States since the 1990s on charges of espionage and murder. (ORIGINAL)

"Most Beautiful Thing"

Life goes on for Malu (Maria Casadevall) and her friends in the wake of a tragedy as this Brazilian drama series about a divorcee who opens a Bossa Nova club in 1950s Rio de Janeiro comes back for its second season. Mel Lisboa, Pathy Dejesus and Thaila Ayala are among cast returnees. (ORIGINAL)

"Taste the Nation With Padma Lakshmi"

Award-winning cookbook author and presenter Padma Lakshmi ("Top Chef") goes on a journey across the United States to explore the rich and diverse food cultures of various immigrant groups, seek out the people who have shaped what American food is today and get a handle on what it means to be American. (ORIGINAL)

"Love, Victor"

Based in the same world as the 2018 feature film "Love, Simon," this half-hour comedy series follows the journey of Victor (Michael Cimino, "Annabelle Comes Home"), new to his high school, as he struggles with challenges at home and his sexual orientation, which prompt him to reach out to Simon when things get too overwhelming. Ana Ortiz ("Ugly Betty"), James Martinez ("One Day at a Time"), Isabella Ferreira ("Orange Is the New Black") and newcomer Mateo Fernandez also star. (ORIGINAL)

SOUTH CAROLINA M4217 CONTRACTOR

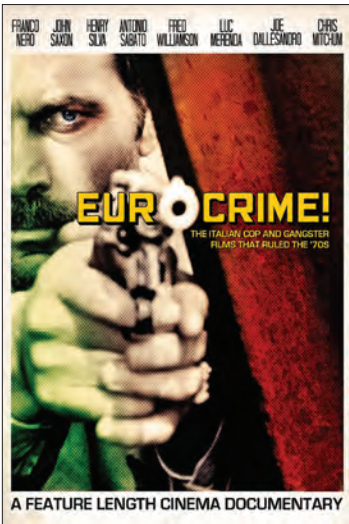

"Movie: Knives Out"
 Director Rian Johnson's ("Looper," "The Brothers Bloom") hugely entertaining 2019 comedy caper stars a game cast including Daniel Craig, Jamie Lee Curtis, Toni Collette, Chris Evans and Christopher Plummer in this tale of a detective investigating the death of the patriarch of a family of eccentrics. The well-reviewed film garnered multiple awards but surprisingly only one Oscar nod — for best screenplay.

"Regular Heroes"
 At a time when the pandemic has shut down the country and killed hundreds of thousands, Amazon comes forth with this eight-episode docuseries that spotlights stories from the frontlines of the fight against COVID-19. It also salutes the contributions and personal sacrifices of individuals in cities such as New York, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Chicago and Seattle, who go above and beyond to support their communities during the crisis. (ORIGINAL)

"Dads"
 "Dads" is a heartfelt and humorous documentary that celebrates the joys and challenges of parenting in today's world. Featuring six extraordinary fathers from across the globe, this film offers a firsthand glimpse into the trials and tribulations of modern-day parenting.

"Movie: Eurocrime! The Italian Cop and Gangster Films That Ruled the '70s"
 Film journalist Mike Malloy directed this 2012 documentary that delves into the violent Italian "poliziotteschi" cinematic movement of the 1970s and argues that films such as "Execution Squad," "The Violent Professionals" and "High Crime" that were mistaken as ripoffs of U.S. crime dramas were actually addressing real Italian issues like the Sicilian Mafia and red terrorism.

"Movie: Shubh Mangal Savdhan"
 From India comes this 2017 romantic comedy about a couple who fall in love but then the groom discovers he suffers from erectile dysfunction. Ayushmann Khurrana, Bhumi Pednekar, Seema Bhargava and Anshul Chauhan star for director R.S. Prasanna in his remake of his 2013 comedy "Kalyana Samayal Saadhham."

"Karma"
 Karma takes sixteen contestants, ranging in age from 12 to 15, completely off the grid to solve puzzles and overcome physical challenges, with the laws of karma setting the rules. This adventure competition series hosted by YouTube sensation Michelle Khare will test the mental and physical stamina of its young contestants as they unravel how their social actions impact their success in the game. Focus, giving, humility, growth, connection, change and patience are the path to becoming the 'Karma Champion'. But more importantly, the players learn one of life's most profound lessons: "What you give out, you get back."

Carrie Fisher's Top 10 Movies

BY JAY BOBBIN

"Maps to the Stars" (2014): Fisher loosely played a version of herself in director David Cronenberg's serio-comic tale of a Hollywood family at very different stages in their lives.

"Soapdish" (1991): The tart line delivery by Fisher earned ample laughs as she played one of the makers of a television serial with lots going on behind the scenes.

"When Harry Met Sally ... " (1989): Fisher's wisecracking nature served her well as the friend who advises Sally (Meg Ryan) on – or against – romance.

"The 'Burb" (1989): Just with her facial expressions, Fisher said a lot as Tom Hanks' wife in this dark comedy about the couple's dealings with strange new neighbors.

"Hannah and Her Sisters" (1986): In Woody Allen's Oscar-winning saga of a family and its connections, Fisher made her mark as Dianne Wiest's fellow-caterer friend in a large and great cast.

"Under the Rainbow" (1981): An amusing Fisher played the ultimately exasperated supervisor of those playing Munchkins in the screen classic "The Wizard of Oz."

"The Blues Brothers" (1980): Fisher had what turned out to be a pivotal role as a "Mystery Woman" in this sprawling comedy based on John Belushi and Dan Aykroyd's "Saturday Night Live" act.

"Star Wars: Chapter V – The Empire Strikes Back" (1980): The emotional depth added to the saga by this edition, and reflected to no small degree by Fisher's Leia, qualifies this to be named here along with the first film in the franchise.

"Star Wars: Chapter IV – A New Hope" (1977): Well, of course. Any movie that makes a performer iconic is a "must" for this sort of list, and this sci-fi epic set in "a galaxy far, far away" surely did that for Fisher as Princess Leia.

"Shampoo" (1975): A wonderfully precocious Fisher – who displayed her edginess even then – set herself up to be one of a womanizing hair stylist's (Warren Beatty) youngest conquests.

'A New Hope' springs eternal for 'Star Wars'

BY JAY BOBBIN

"A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away"

How many times have you heard that line over the past 40-plus years? It does seem like a long time ago that George Lucas first introduced the world of "Star Wars," which he had a hard time selling (later leaving many studio executives kicking themselves for turning him down). It all started with what would be renamed "Star Wars: A New Hope," which TNT presents – along with several other films in the series – Sunday, June 14.

Many an analysis has been made of the franchise over the decades, but one of the pleasures of the first picture is that it lays out the premise so simply and clearly, with the good Luke Skywalker (Mark Hamill) determined to dismantle the empire of the evil Darth Vader (David Prowse, with distinctively deep voice supplied by James Earl Jones).

That means infiltrating brigades of well-armed Stormtroopers to launch an assault from inside and outside the orbiting fortress tellingly known as the Death Star. The impulsive Luke needs help in achieving the attack, and he gets it from several sources including the wise Ben "Obi-Wan" Kenobi (Alec Guinness) and droids R2-D2 and C-3PO (Kenny Baker, Anthony Daniels).

And, of course, there is Princess Leia (Carrie Fisher) ... whose hologram's appeal for help draws Luke into the conflict before he knew his deeper connection to her. And also of course, there is Han Solo (Harrison Ford), the adventurous rebel who brings along his Wookiee companion Chewbacca (Peter Mayhew) and his rickety but serviceable Millennium Falcon vessel as extra assets.

The sum total is immense fun that still holds up wonderfully,

Now knowing that "A New Hope" is the fourth "episode" in the overall "Star Wars" sequence makes it even more logical that the film plunges viewers right into the already-in-motion action, with John Williams' brilliantly appropriate, Oscar-winning music underscoring an intergalactic battle. The picture would take five additional Academy Awards that largely acknowledged the technical expertise behind it.

A sign of the success of "Star Wars: A New Hope" was how influential it was on other projects pretty immediately, in no small part because it's so timeless, creating its own history that has fueled prequels, sequels and offshoots aplenty since moviegoers first learned what an X-wing fighter or a lightsaber was.

from the James Bond-in-outer-space caper "Moonraker" to television's original "Battlestar Galactica." Still, Lucas' creation remains utterly unique, rightfully accumulating new generations of fans as the years go on.

Things get animated in political 'One Day at a Time' episode

BY JAY BOBBIN

If necessity is indeed the mother of invention, then the pandemic-forced shutdown of TV production is the impetus for the first animated episode of "One Day at a Time."

Premiering Tuesday, June 16, on Pop TV, the half-hour installment titled "The Politics Episode" finds Penelope (voice of Justina Machado) getting a visit from her cousins Estrellita (voice of Melissa Fumero, "Brooklyn Nine-Nine"), Tia Mirtha (voice of Gloria Estefan) and Tio Juanito (voice of Broadway's Lin-Manuel Miranda). But with the election just around the corner, emotions run high and words are exchanged as Estrellita's conservative views clash with the others'.

The episode was already planned to be done in live action when production on Season 4 was shut down in March. Believing this episode had something important to say, executive producers Gloria Calderon Kellett and Mike Royce went ahead with the idea of making it animated. So a Canadian animation company was hired, mic kits were dropped off at the actors' homes and everyone did their parts remotely.

Of course, this being done outside the studio meant there would be no studio audience and hence no laughs to play off of, so adjustments were made to the script. So this in more ways than one will be no normal "One Day at a Time" episode.

"You want it to keep going because animation is just a different animal," Calderon Kellett explains. "So we made the decision just to keep it moving and keep it flowing and knowing that fans of the show would already be familiar with what it is and we had a lot of material we wanted to get through. You know, it's 21 minutes and we wanted it chock full of conversation and fun. So it seemed like the right decision for the form to take the laughs out of it."

"When you tell a joke in a sitcom," Royce adds, "when the audience is laughing you're still watching a great actor behave. You know, there's a look or you're cutting to a reaction. It's all the human behavior so it's very live in that sense. For animation, they're static characters that sit there and they can react and stuff but it's not the same. You know, they're kind of doing nothing essentially so you're kind of dead if you wait around for the beats afterwards."

As for the storyline itself, both producers say this isn't so much one political view versus another as an exploration of how to have these conversations without them escalating into full-blown fights.

"We're trying to figure out how do we have this very important discussion in the show without it turning into 'Crossfire' or something that you can see on any cable news interview," Royce says. "And we realized that all we were talking about was: How do you talk about it? And that's what the show should be about. ...

"It's like strategizing how we even have this conversation. That's the episode. And you know, the conversation does take place but the story is about all the different iterations that they go through of like, what if we tried this? What if we do this? What if we do this? And the relative successes and failures of those methods."

"Columbia Classics 4K Ultra HD Collection"

Chances are good that those who love movies own the six titles in this set already in other formats, but this gathering offers each of them in 4K Ultra HD for the first time. That's particularly big news in the cases of director David Lean's Oscar-winning epic "Lawrence of Arabia," famous for its vast panoramas as Peter O'Toole plays the title role, and Ben Kingsley in his Academy Award-honored performance in the Richard Attenborough-directed "Gandhi." Also included, collectively spanning much of the history of Columbia Pictures: James Stewart in Frank Capra's "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington"; Stanley Kubrick's "Dr. Strangelove or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb," with Peter Sellers in multiple roles (and Slim Pickens iconically "riding" a nuclear bomb like a bucking bronc); Tom Hanks, Geena Davis and Madonna in Penny Marshall's "no crying in baseball" tale "A League of Their Own"; and Tom Cruise as sports agent "Jerry Maguire," in which writer-director Cameron Crowe boosted Renee Zellweger to stardom. Each title includes new special features and others carried over from previous home-video editions. »»» (Various ratings: AS, P, V)

"What She Said: The Art of Pauline Kael"

One of the most respected of all movie critics is recalled in this documentary, in which Sarah Jessica Parker gives voice to the subject's writings – which not only include published reviews, but also personal letters. The film concentrates on the 1960s and 1970s, when Kael's influence as a columnist in The New Yorker was at its peak, to the extent that certain moviemakers were said to have conferred with her before they shot or released their work. Francis Ford Coppola, Quentin Tarantino, David O. Russell and Ridley Scott are among the directors who discuss Kael's work, and so do Alec Baldwin and fellow critic Molly Haskell. »» (Not rated: P) (Also on On Demand)

"Laurel & Hardy: The Definitive Restorations"

Fans of one of the most popular and enduring of all comedy duos are sure to appreciate this new collection, which restores a bounty of their short subjects and two of their feature films, with most of what's seen here having been made in the 1930s. Definite highlights are "The Music Box," the Oscar-winning short that sees Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy trying to move a piano, plus the first-time-ever-on-video "The Battle of the Century" (that "battle" being a pie fight). "Sons of the Desert" and "Way Out West" are the full-length features, and the many extras include a rare feast of Laurel and Hardy outtakes and "The Tree in a Test Tube," the one color attraction they made together that still exists. »»» (Not rated: V) (Also on Blu-ray)

"The Queen at War"

Queen Elizabeth's comments about current times have had particular poignancy as she's referenced her days as a youth during World War II – which are detailed in this recently televised PBS documentary, produced by England's BBC and explaining the challenges the then-princess faced in surviving one of her country's (and the globe's) most difficult periods. While nurturing a nascent romance, she addressed her countrymen via radio and served in the military herself. Friends and royal biographers are among those commenting on the monarch-to-be's existence in an era when she kept others' hope alive while dealing with threats to her own. "Downton Abbey" alum Phyllis Logan is the narrator. »» (Not rated)

A studio that surely has no shortage of horror movies in its history, Universal continues to mine its vault for scary oldies but goodies with this collection. There's a connecting theme to the four films assembled here, since they all make animals the subjects of experiments. An ape inherits a mobster's brain – hey, it could happen – in the Paul Lukas-starring "The Monster and the Girl" (1941); another simian is transformed into the "Captive Wild Woman" (1943), featured along with its sequel, "Jungle Woman" (1944) and both casting "Gunsmoke" staple Milburn Stone; and in "Jungle Captive" (1945), a follow-up to the last two pictures, a scientist (Otto Kruger) who's been successful with bringing animals back to life tries it on a human.
